WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT

FEATURED by Most of the country's outstanding feminine golfers, the annual Women's Championship of Palm Beach played over the Country Club course recently furnished an all-time highlight for competitive golf in the resort.

Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews, Miami Biltmore, who had already won permanent possession of the Flagler Chalice Trophy, by virtue of taking the event three times, halted abruptly the winning streak of diminutive Patty Berg, Minneapolis school girl golfer, by defeating her in the finals by the wide margin of 4 and 3, to chalk up her fourth win in the event.

Miss Patty Berg loomed as a formidable contender after turning the tables on Mrs. Glenna Collette Vare, women's national champion, in the quarter final round on the preceding Wednesday, in an upset match by the score of 3 and 2. By doing so, she made up for her defeat by Mrs. Vare in the nationals at Minneapolis last summer, when the national champion defeated her by the same tally.

In defeating Patty Berg, Mrs. Crews also made up for her loss at the hands of the Minneapolis golfer in the Punta Gorda Tournament a few weeks before, and is expected to meet her again this week when she defends her title in the Florida East Coast Championship at St. Augustine.

More than ninety entries, comprising one of the largest and most prominent fields of feminine golfers to take part in the tourney in recent years qualified over the Country Club course, including the three outstanding players in the women's nationals, Mrs. Glenna Collette Vare, winner; Miss Patty Berg, runner-up, and Miss Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., medalist.

Other feminine golf notables included Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Miss Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky., who was medalist in the event; Kathryn Hemphill, Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, Plandome, C. C., L. I.; Miss Jane Cathron, Greenville, S. C.; Miss Lucille Robinson, Des Moines, Ia.; Miss Hilda Mae Livengood, Danville, Ill.; Mrs. Lawrence Schwab, New York; Mrs. Leon Solomon, Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Audrey Phipps, Piping Rock and Palm Beach; Mrs. William Hockenjos, Jr., Lake Hpatcong, N. H.; Mrs. Austin Pardue, Minneapolis and Palm Beach; Miss Lillian Zech, Chicago; Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y., and many others.

Mrs. Helen Detweiler, of Washington, won the second flight finals defeating Mrs. B. A. Whittemore, Boston, 1 up.

Miss Dorothy Ellis, of Indianapolis won the third flight when she defeated Mrs. J. T. Havens, Palm Beach, 6 and 4.

Mrs. Austin Pardue, Minneapolis, won the consolation event defeating Miss Lillian Zech, Chicago, 3 and 2.

Playing over a rain soaked course to a gallery numbering almost 3,000 persons, Miss Patty Berg and Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews were even at the turn in the finals, the former carding a 38 to a 40 for the latter. On the in-round, however, Patty Berg had trouble with her approach shots and putting. Mrs. Crews, playing the consistent golf which has given her low scores throughout the match play, won the tenth, twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth in par figures and squared the fifteenth to win her fourth victory in the annual event, which played host to the country's leading feminine golfers.

Mrs. Crews got off to a flying start, garnering the first two holes. On the first green she laid a partial stymie for the Minneapolis golfer who failed to negotiate it with her second putt. On the second hole Patty Berg landed in a bunker on her approach her chip to the green, landing about four feet away. Miss Berg's putt went past the pin; Mrs. Crews missed her putt and her opponent duplicated the maneuver, Mrs. Crews then taking the hole with a par four to Miss Berg's five.

The Miami golfer lost the third and sixth holes, hooking into the rough on the former hole, being over on her approach and using too fast a hand on the green to draw a seven, while Miss Berg was on with her third, hole high, and putted the cup on the next shot for a par 4.

On the latter Patty Berg was on the edge of the green in two, her first putt stopped 10 feet from the pin, but she sank it with her second putt, while Mrs. Crews' approach found the trap, she made a bad out and encountered a partial stymie which she failed to negotiate, giving her a 6.

The Minneapolis youngster also took the seventh to be one up when her approach stopped about four feet from the cup and she holed out with a birdie 3. Mrs. Crews missing a five-footer to take a 4.

They halved, the 198-yard eighth in par 3's, Patty Berg sinking a 10-footer while Mrs. Crews holed out a two-foot putt.

Mrs. Crews evened the match on the ninth when she got on in two and holed out with a birdie 4 to a 5 chalked up by her youthful opponent.

After rounding the turn, Mrs. Crews shot the superior golf of the afternoon. Patty Berg landed in the rough on her drive to the tenth, her second shot still found her in the rough, her approach being short and her putt running over and climaxing the play by missing her putt to take a 6 to Mrs. Crews' 5.

They halved the eleventh with 6's when both putts stopped on the edge of the cup. Mrs. Crews then took the next three in a row. The twelfth went to Mrs. Crews when Miss Berg drove into the water, costing her a shot, and then missed a putt, to take a 5 while Mrs. Crews made a par 3.

She won the thirteenth when Patty Berg found the trap on her approach, was short on blasting out and missed a putt to take a 5. Mrs. Crews' approach over the green, was short coming back but sank a long one to take the hole with a par 4.

She also took the fourteenth with a par 4 when Miss Berg sliced her drive, was short on her second and approach shots and three-putted the green for a 6. The match ended when they halved the fifteenth with 5's.

Upset match of the tournament occurred in the first day of match play when Patty Berg eliminated her rival, Mrs. Glenna Collette Vare by the score of 3 and 2.

Mrs. Vare was decidedly off form both on the fairway and the green, while the 17-year-old Minneapolis youngster shot them right down the middle and holed them out beautifully.

Playing over a soggy course, they were even at the turn, each carding a smart 37. Patty Berg took the twelfth with a par 3 after both homesteaded the eleventh for sevens. She made the outstanding hole of the round on the 350-yard thirteenth when she laid her second shot within 2 inches of the cup to make a birdie 3, garnering the fourteenth with a par 4 to put her 3 up. Vare cut the margin to two on the fifteenth when her drive hit a spectator after being hooked and bounded on the fairway. Her second was on the edge of a bunker, but she made a nice out to put her ball within a few feet of the pin, taking the hole with a four to Berg's five when the latter overputted the green. Mrs. Vare hooked her drive on the sixteenth, while Patty Berg was right down the middle, two putting the green for a part three to win the match.

Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews shot the best round of the day to dispose of Kathryn Hemphill, Columbia, S. C., by the slim margin of 1 up, making a 73 for the round to a 74 tacked up by her long-driving opponent. Miss Hemphill made a close fight of it all the way around, carding a 36 on the out-nine, two strokes over men's par and one stroke under the former champion, making birdie twos on the short third and eighth holes. Putting proved to be the Waterloo for Miss Hemphill on the in-round, taking sixes on the eleventh and fourteenth holes, recovering on the thirteenth to make a birdie three and squaring the remaining four holes to lose the match to the Miami-Biltmore veteran by a 1 up tally.

Staging a remarkable comeback, after being one down at the turn, Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky., medalist in the event, hit her championship stride to defeat Mrs. Carion Turpie Lake, Plandome, Long Island, 4 and 2, winning five holes on the back nine and halving the other two to end the match on the sixteenth green.

Patty Berg won a one-sided victory over Mrs. Leon Solomon, Memphis golfer, over the Country Club course by the wide margin of 5 and 4, while Mrs. Crews defeated Miss Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky., medalist, by the score of 2 and 1.

Superb putting gave the Minneapolis youngster the match. She was four up at the turn with a 39, dropping the tenth, but winning the eleventh and twelfth in par figures to end the match on the fourteenth green.

Maureen Orcutt Crews also won her match on the green, although consistently outdriven by the Lexington, Ky., sharpshooter, who made a determined bid for the event.

They were even at the turn, each carding a 38, both shooting a fine brand of golf on the out-nine. On the tenth, Miss Miley's putting went bad and she took a five to lose the hole. On the eleventh she drove out of bounds which cost her a shot and set her back a margin of two holes. Mrs. Crews won the twelfth after a beautiful approach from an awkward lie, to put her three up.

They halved the thirteenth, but trouble with her driving and approach shots cost Mrs. Crews the next two holes which Miss Miley took with par fours. They halved the sixteenth when Miss Miley laid a dead stymie which Mrs. Crews failed to negotiate, but the Miami golfer won the seventeenth with a par three to end the match.

TWENTIETH CENTURY EXHIBITION

THE consternation with which the visitors to the galleries of The Society of the Four Arts are viewing the array of ultra-modern paintings this week is reminiscent of the howl of derision that went up when America was given its first comprehensive view of modern French art at the memorable Armory show in New York in 1913. At that time the fruits of thirty-nine years of rebellion against precedent and tradition in painting were the common fare of the European art-loving public, but it was entirely new food for American assimilation. Since then, however, artists and art critics in this country and the public itself, in metropolitan areas, have followed the various phases of new expression in plastic arts with a studious interest.

For sixty-two years the world has been in the throes of this conglomeration of movements, which, for the sake of brevity, are grouped into the one word Modernism. Something fundamentally great is destined to grow out of it regardless of the concensus of public opinion because it is merely the expression of another cyclic, evolutionary upheaval in the eternally recurring phenonema of change which nature brings about on our planet. In chronicled history of future years this period will graphically record our swift, mad and bewildered spirit, and our yearning to create, a yearning comparable with primitive man's crude efforts as they are pictured on cavern walls unearthed from antiquity. It was from such archaic forms that the finished, voluptuous and phographic painting of the 19th century developed.

The fires of the present art rebellion were lighted in 1874 and glowed pleasantly enough through the period of Impressionism, but in the same manner that Christian devotees light their candles yearly from the Holy Fire in Jerusalem to spread its sacredness to the ends of the earth, so did the painters of the twentieth century light their torches of tortured imagination from post-impressionism and march with them along divers roads in the strangest and saddest revolution of all times.

It will be many years before the great mass of material now generally classed as modernism is assembled and filtered for its true essence. Its psychological result, however, will be as definite in art history of the future as the results of our present speed, mechanism, feverish business activities and chaos of thought.

It is quite safe to say that each one of the artists represented in this exhibition could have painted in any manner he chose. All were trained in schools of art and learned the same fundamentals of painting which were taught to Gainsborough or Van Dyke or any of the men whose names have appeared in the catalogues of previous exhibitions this year at The Society of the Four Arts. A glance through the biographies of the twenty-one artists now represented will be most illuminating. Many of them spent years copying "old masters" in the Louvre; several were etchers, lithographers or illustrators; some were mural painters in eighteenth century traditional manner; one was a china painter in the great factory at Limoges; another retouched negatives for a famous photographer; some were graduate architects and engineers; another was a designer of stage and scenery, and so on through a long list of academic accomplishments.

In a broad sense the slogan of the Cubists, headed by Braque and Picasso, covers the intention of them all. They said "We are architects creating symbolic equivalents of the relations of lines and colors, lights and darks, recessions and proportions in the universe as we know it. We leave the imitation of the effects of phenonema in particular lights at particular moments to the cameras—but mechanical and human." Braque said further, "In art progress lies not in extension but in a knowledge of limitation." Gris, who was influenced by Picasso's cubism, said, "I work with the elements of spirit; I work with imagination; I try to give concrete form to what is abstract; I pass from the general to the particular."

Had these men created new forms with which to express their abstraction in their efforts to make their works perceptible to the mind rather than to the senses, instead of distorting or caricaturing familiar objects to denote something as viewed apart from the concrete, a general understanding of their intent might have been easier. No matter how sincere the average person is in his attempt to appreciate "modern" painting it is difficult for him to jump the hurdles built up of an array of hideous human forms and faces, awkward animals and crooked houses, and land on the common ground where these twentieth century artists meet in uniform endeavor.

There is an element of bathos in the yearning to create and discover and be free from tradition and precedent which has tortured the souls of the group of men who are outstanding in the transition period of the last half hundred years, but it is not the ludicrous descent to imbecility which the public at large thinks it to be.

MRS. GEORGE ALEXANDER McKINLOCK
prominent society matron, strolling in the garden of Casa Alejandro, her home in Vita Serena.

Frankly it is difficult for anyone who is not an accredited critic and connoisseur of painting of all periods to tell the good from the bad in modern painting. The gallery-going public is divided into three classes; those who take everything which is less than academic as a huge joke; those who recognize the co-relation of modern art with modern life and look seriously and intelligently at examples of Fauvism and Surrealism hoping to find that expression on canvas; and those who think it smart to admire ultra-modernism in any form whatsoever and acclaim good and bad with equal exuberance.

It is almost incredible that the same school should have produced such a variety of expression as has grown out of impressionism which was itself only the natural and inevitable evolution from colorful romantic realism of solid French tradition. The best known impressionists were Renoir, Degas, Manet, Monet, Pissaro, and Sisley. They realistically recorded everyday life and the works of the first two men in this group will live through the ages. Degas is the only one represented in the current exhibition. His picture "The Dancer" will serve to illustrate the school which strangely enough prefaced the kaleidoscope of blatant inharmonies shown this week.

Following this period came Cezanne, the morose recluse who painted all his life but was not recognized until he was sixty. He tried to return to order and correct the chaos of the individualists movements which followed the French Revolution. He eliminated casual effects as such but wove them into an architectural structure in which all parts conformed in line and color to the whole.

From this beginning grew Cubism which "owed much to Cezanne and little to nature." Picasso, Braque, Gris and Leger, all important masters in this school, are each represented in the present exhibition. Picasso began as a romantic but has left his blues and pinks and melancholy beggars far behind in his triumphant march through five distinct intellectually creative periods which mark his phenomenal career. In his cubist-abstraction, evidenced in many of the works shown here, he has employed the essence of architectural form to the exclusion of all reality.

Picasso's abstract symbolism anticipated Surrealism and Dadaism both of which are exemplified here by the works of Miro, Klee and de Chirico whose ludicrous incredible proportions and juxtapositions are nightmares of abstract architectural cubism. Klee attempts to reproduce the emotions relating to the subject of his pictures in a conglomeration of lines and forms; de Chirico brought a new romanticism to modern French painting—a somewhat mysterious and mythical architectural vision—which makes his archaic horses, statuesque female figures and classic fragments more unreal than grotesque; Mire, influenced equally by Fauvism and Cubism has retained something of realism and has maintained a certain independence, although in general aspect his work belongs among the Fauves.

Fauvism, inspired by Van Gogh and Gauguin, also grew out of this melee, with Cezanne always in the background. Matisse proved to be the most important figure among Les Fauves (the wild beasts). Others in this group whose paintings are shown in the present exhibition are Dufy, Rouault and Utrillo. Matisse's fine sense of proportion and scale is an outstanding feature of his work into which he weaves a skillful pattern of radiantly colored counter-balanced planes. Dufy, Paris' joyous painter, delights in colorful open air pictures but has no interest whatsoever in solidity of form, and whatever Fauvian influence he had has apparently been lost in his calligraphic art of linear impressions, broken and spotted. Utrillo paints without sentiment or romanticism, even without reason. He paints leprous walls and murky alleys or brilliant and beautiful improvisations in pure color. Some of his pictures are sane but more are dipsomaniacal. Rouault's circus clowns, dancers and religious figures amount to caricature. The dark claret and indigo blue of his palette recall stained glass windows and Byzantine decorations which intrigued him. He was sponsored by Matisse.

Bonnard created a new school of naturalism inspired by the impressionists and is known for picturesque composition in warm radiant color, structural plans and receding planes.

Leger was an architect before he was a painter. He followed after Cezanne, opposed his own conception of pictorial dynamism to cubism, and his plastic feeling, always formal in expression, is concerned only with form and its aspects.

Mondrain was the leader of the Stijl group at Leyden in 1917 and soon afterwards identified himself with neo-plasticism. In 1932 he became the leader of the abstraction-creation movement. His pictures are quite apt to be nothing more than a succession of lines and flat surfaces in two colors. Helion was an engineer and an architect before becoming a cubist painter and he is now in the abstraction-creation group. Laurens isn't identified with anything in particular since his abandonment of cubism which he expressed in polychrome plaster, wood and iron sculpture-construction.

of Chicago, one of the popular hostesses of the resort who entertains extensively at Villa Today, her home in Villa Bellaria.

IN THE REALM OF MANSION AND HACIENDA

MANOR life on the island has contributed more than its share towards the social activities of the season. Supplemented by many contributions of charm and distinction to the Palm Beach domain of restful bower and imposing mansion and featuring the re-opening of several beautiful homes sadly missed by the social colony last season, the cottage coterie has presented a colorful and varied programme for the delectation of its distinguished visitors.

From the imposing Spanish Castles on the ocean front to the more sequestered villas along the lake-shore Palm Beach winter residents have participated in the gay round of parties noted throughout the island this season. While many of the larger gatherings are held in the various smart clubs in the colony, numerous intimate luncheon and dinner parties have been held in the homes of the Palm Beach group.

Informality is the outstanding feature of the care-free assemblages who lunch and dine together at their lovely homes this season. Entertainment follows the informal trend with private showings of first run motion pictures and the peppiest of the news reels proving the most popular form of after-dinner diversion.

Joining the throng of visiting Palm Beach notables Mrs. Hamilton McKay Twombly, of New York, recent addition to the Palm Beach colony, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Jr., in their home, "Miradero," at Gulfstream, has found the nearby polo fields a fascinating setting for the colorful Sunday afternoon games featuring internationally famous players.

Just a step away from both the polo fields and the adjacent Gulf Stream Golf Club Mrs. Twombly and Mrs. John Henry Prudy, who is also a house guest of the Webbs, find the lovely tropical background and the hospitality of the W. Seward Webbs an attractive combination.

Augmenting the visiting nobility now in Palm Beach, the Viscount du Pontavice de Heussey, of Paris, France, is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beaver Strassburger, at "Seven Oaks," Barton Avenue. After a frigid crossing on the "Ile de France" the Viscount wasted no time in snow-bound New York and pointed straight for Palm Beach and the beautiful home of Ralph Beaver Strassburger as quickly as the traffic of the Metropolitan City would permit.

Viscount du Pontavice is a member of the Jockey Club of France and is the owner of "Haras des Chenettes" at Lessardle-Chene, Calvados, France. Associated with him in this venture is James Hennessy, Steward of the Longchamp, Chantilly and Deauville race courses.

If it were not for the charming hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Beaver Strassburger the Viscount would spend most of his time at the Miami race tracks as the horses have always been the ruling interest in this popular continental's life. In France he is noted for his varied activities in the field of horse-racing and is considered an authority of no mean ability on the subject of horses and horse-racing.

One of the modern socialites who scorn the comparatively slow methods of transportation furnished by rail and steam is Mr. Charles Ware, of New York, who arrived here recently by plane to join his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, at their villa, "Casa Primavera," on El Bravo Way. Last year Mr. Ware was the house guest of Mrs. John A. Vietor in Palm Beach.

Dr. and Mrs. Leland Eggleston Cofer entertained for the Hon. and Mrs. Andrew Farrant, of London, at their home, "Capricho," on Barton Avenue, last week. The Farrants are house guests of Dr. Cofer and his wife for an indefinite stay.

"Malmaison," Palm Beach home of the James H. R. Cromwells, has been a bee-hive of activity this season since the arrival of the youthful globe-trotter and his beautiful bride, the former Doris Duke. The popular Mr. Cromwell is noted for his athletic ability and intellectual achievements. Having found time between his numerous jaunts about the world to publish several interesting brochures dealing with the monetary problems confronting the nation, and to box with several famous champions

This popular young socialite has been hard at work on a new book dealing with world problems and finds the Palm Beach season a welcome diversion after dashing about the globe after data.

The lovely Doris Duke is obviously very happy in her new role as Mrs. Cromwell and judging from the radiant appearance of this couple theirs is one of the modern marriages which is slated to last.

Mr. Jules S. Bache has been entertaining as his house guests Mr. and Mrs. Howard Molson, of Canada, and Mrs. David Moss, of New York, at his Barton Avenue villa.

MRS. JOHN R. LAWSON-JOHNSTON, of New York, who with Mr. Lawson-Johnston, are passing the season at White Villa on the Everglades Club grounds. They are members of the Bath and Tennis and Everglades Club.

AMONG THE PALMS

THE very smart and luxurious hotels are centers of social activity and gaiety, and a variety of entertainment prevails.

Mid-season at the lovely Breakers Hotel finds the great hostelry filled to capacity with outstanding residents from many continents, and a number of social functions have added interest to the already irresistible life of the colony.

Marking the passing of another milestone of the famous Old Guard Society of Palm Beach golfers, the eighteenth annual banquet of the pioneer golfing organization, was held last week in the grand loggia of the hotel. Mr. Ellsworth C. Warner, president of the Old Guards, was toastmaster and presided most ably at the affair. Especial honor was given Mayor John Shepard, Jr., and General J. Ernest Smith, only two surviving members of the original twelve founders of the Old Guard Society. Among the speakers were Assistant Attorney General Frank J. Wideman, Mr. James Leonard Replogle, Senator James A. Reed, Mr. Charles Frances Coe, Mr. Edward T. Stotesbury, Mr. George H. Keim, Mr. Albert M. Banker and Mr. Walter C. Powers.

Mrs. Myrtle L. Shepherd, of New York, entertained at luncheon recently in the north lounge of the Breakers, honoring Mrs. Bernard M. Phillip, talented artist, professionally known both here and abroad as Jane Peterson, who has arrived to visit in the resort.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, II, of Boston, has been spending a week at Seaside Cottage on Breakers Row, following a stay at Fernandina.

Among other social registerites arriving recently at the Breakers are Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Halsey, of Montclair, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bixby, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Louis K. Hyde, of Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Snyder, of Chicago, have arrived to spend another season at the Breakers. Mr. and Mrs. Colent S. Potter, of New York, were guests recently at the Breakers before joining Mrs. Wesson Seyburn and house party at Casa Giravento on Via le Selna.

Mr. Cameron Morrison, former governor of the state of North Carolina, and Mrs. Morrison are guests at the Breakers. Among other new arrivals are Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Herbst, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Flammer, of Bronxville, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Savage, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Eberhard Anheuser, of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Manning, of Boston.

Mrs. Henry E. Candler, of Detroit, who is a guest at the Breakers, gave a luncheon the past week at the Gulf Stream Club for twenty-eight guests.

The Palm Beach Hotel is in the center of Palm Beach social and sporting activities. Groups of visitors meet here and form parties to attend the races, visit the beaches or play a round of golf. And, within a short distance the latest motion picture hits and most exclusive night clubs may be visited. Also, many forms of entertainment are planned for guests at the hotel which includes solos several nights a week by the popular radio tenor, Mr. Harry Caffrey, during the dinner hour. He is accompanied by Ross Allen's orchestra that also plays for dinner dancing and later in the evening.

Distinguished guests arriving at the Palm Beach Hotel from Philadelphia are Mr. Randolph W. Childs, Mr. William L. Shields and his daughter, Miss Anne Marie Shields, Miss Elizabeth S. Mink, Mrs. Adelaide I. Norton and Mrs. Edward C. Gail.

Joining the foreign contingent were Dr. and Mrs. N. Palacios Costa, of Buenos Aires, Argentina. Accompanying them were Mr. Edwards Palacios Costa, Mr. Manual Calvo and Miss Petra Ledesma. Mr. and Mrs. H. U. Cowan, of Toronto, have joined the large group of Canadians at the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frank and Mr. and Mrs. James Zeltus, of Freeport, L. I., and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Diko, of Woodhaven, L. I., are recent arrivals.

Other prominent guests making a lengthy sojourn are Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Miller, of New York City; Mr. Joseph M. Rogers and Mr. Edward H. Muhlfeld, of Fifth Avenue, New York, in one party and Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Gilfillan, Mrs. E. S. Ayres and Miss Ann Vest, of Park Avenue, New York. Mr. and Mrs. M. Burhan, accompanied by Mr. John Kohler and Mr. Edward Levy, of Fifth Avenue, have taken an apartment for the season.

Mr. W. S. Pierce, of Bayville, L. I., arrived recently from the Mountain Lake Club at Lake Wales, Fla., where he has been visiting.

Miss Helen C. Howland and Mrs. John E. Howland, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., and Mr. Howard S. Hart, of Oak Bluff, Mass., are making a lengthy stay at the Palm Beach Hotel. Also, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Eaton, of Winchester, Mass.; Mrs. Ainsworth Clarke and Mr. John Marshall Clarke, of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Howe and Mr. James H. Platt, of St. Louis.

Augmenting the large colony of Hamp-tonites wintering at the Brazilian Court are Mr. and Mrs. John T. Sherman and their daughter, Miss Dorothea Sherman, of Easthampton, who will remain for a stay of several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Copper, of Minneapolis, Minn., who have been visiting at Boca Raton for several weeks, are guests at the hotel for a few days. Joining Mr. and Mrs. David Van Pelt, of Rosemont, Pa., who have been guests at Brazilian Court for a fortnight, is her aunt, Mrs. G. V. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Van Voert of Greenhaven, N. Y., have arrived at the hotel Seaglade, where they will remain until late in March.

Mr. Frank Townsend Hutchens, noted artist of New York, has returned to the Hotel Seaglade for his third season and will remain for several weeks. Mr. Hutchens, who was here earlier in the season, went to Tallahassee to execute a commission there.

of New York City. Here for the winter season at the Breakers Hotel.

MIAMI

THE air is fairly exuding a holiday atmosphere here which brings back the same feeling of excitement small boys feel playing hookey from school. Coral Gables is the "happy playground" for hookey-playing big executives and sportsmen from all over the universe.

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the department of justice in Washington, D. C., who is a guest at the Roney Plaza, and Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York, and Mrs. Smith were among the distinguished guests attending the races at Hialeah Park this week.

Mrs. Larson Johnson, of London, England, was hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Smith at a luncheon before the races.

Mrs. Dwight E. Young, of Dayton, Ohio, better known as "Beatrice Fairfax," who is visiting her mother, Mrs. S. A. Payne here, was complimented yesterday with a luncheon by the Delta Delta Delta sorority of which she is national alumnae secretary at the Miami Biltmore. Mrs. Young and her husband have just returned from a cruise to Cuba, Panama and Central America.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Keyes were hosts at a novel party last night at their Coral Gables home. Entertainment was carried out after the manner of the Olympic Finals, with guests giving imitations of sports events.

Miss Helen Montamus, of Springfield, Ohio, who is spending the winter with Mrs. P. E. Montamus in Coral Gables, was hostess at a luncheon recently complimenting Mrs. Edwin P. Preston, formerly Miss Josephine Montamus.

Covers were marked with clever poems attached to miniature corsages in red, white and blue sweet peas, to carry out a George Washington birthday motif.

Mrs. John Barrington McLeod and Miss Helen Mattice, of Indianapolis, were prize winners for the bridge game which was played later.

The Century Club tea dance at the Miami Biltmore country club was given Saturday in celebration of George Washington's birthday.

Cherry boughs decked the lounge and red, white and blue bunting accentuated the tri-colors of a large American flag that hung at one end of the room below a picture of the first president.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Demming, Mr. and Mrs. Reid DeJardnette, Col. and Mrs. P. J. O'Shaughnessy and Mayor and Mrs. Roscoe Brunstetter were among the members entertaining guests who have arrived to spend the winter.

Mrs. Bradbury Barnes, of Providence, R. I., entertained a group of her friends at a bridge luncheon Wednesday in the lounge and card room of the San Sebastian Hotel in honor of Mrs. Joseph Mason Fly, of Memphis, Tenn. Among the other guests were Mrs. J. A. Thieme, of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Mrs. George Randolph, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. E. W. Merchant, of Gloucester, Mass.; Mrs. J. P. Leake, of Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. May B. Ramsey, of Los Angeles; Mrs. David R. Walsh, of Short Hills, N. J.; Mrs. W. N. Kingsley, of Skytop, Pa.; Mrs. Walter L. Hillebrandt, of Madison, N. J.; Mrs. E. R. Snyder and Mrs. O. D. Bechtel, of Reading, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. David Kilpatrick entertained with a tea at their home on Algeria Avenue Wednesday in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Beck, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Among the other guests were Mrs. Julian Thompson, of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. William Lyon, of New York; Mrs. Grace Perry and Mrs. J. A. Harris and Mrs. O. J. Morrison, of Charleston, W. Va.

Mrs. E. H. Conray complimented her daughter, Mrs. R. R. Footh, of Minneapolis, who is here with Mr. Footh, with a bridge party in her Coral Gables home recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Massey, of Birmingham, shared honors with Sir Graeme and Lady Sinclair Lockhard at a cocktail party given recently by Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Gleason in their Coral Gables home.

Continuing a series of parties, Mrs. Edwin N. Belcher and her daughter, Mrs. John B. McLeod, gave a tea last week at Mrs. Belcher's home on North Greenway Drive. Mrs. P. J. Kohlhammer, of Washington, D. C., Mrs. M. Lewis Hall, Mrs. Philip E. Montanus and Miss Martha Slaton alternated at the silver tea services.

Mrs. Walter Scott Harkins, of Prestonburg, Ky., was complimented by her daughter, Mrs. Grover L. Howard recently at a luncheon at the Barcelona tea room in Coral Gables, when a group of out-of-town guests was present. Frosted blue vases were filled with baby's breath and coral sweet peas to decorate the center of the table. Placecards pictured fleur-de-lys.

Mrs. John Woodram, of Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. Wilbur Moore, of Houston, Texas; Mrs. Carrie Hall, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Don C. Hopkins, of Mount Vernon, Ky.; Mrs. Harold Pettit, of Lexington, Ky., and Mrs. Marion Doolittle, of Ashland, Ky., were among the guests.

Winter homes, that have been closed for the summer are being thrown open, as occupants arrive from the North to "keep house."

Dr. and Mrs. Schuyler Colfax Enck, of Harrisburg, Pa., have come to spend the winter in Coral Gables with their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Engle.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Pendergrass and her sister, Mrs. J. B. Ertle have come from Chicago, Ill., to spend the winter at their home on Avenue Majorca, and the twin granddaughters of Mrs. Gertrude Baldwin, who have arrived with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clement W. Perkins, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., are inspiring a series of informal parties among the younger set.

Mrs. S. A. Gaylord and her daughter, Miss Rosemary Gaylord, of Akron, Ohio, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Wingfield Webster at their home on Columbus Boulevard. The Gaylords are former residents of Coral Gables and their friends here are welcoming their visit with a round of festivities.

Mrs. Bonnie C. Parsons entertained for her house guests, Mrs. C. J. Caraballo and Miss Marie Caraballo, of Tampa, with a bridge luncheon recently.

Mrs. Bert Van Sickle, of Larchmont, N. Y., is visiting Mrs. Worth Kastner at her home on Camilla Avenue and Miss Katherine Ries, of Beverly Hills and Chicago, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lillian LeVee, on Alhambra Circle.

Mrs. E. Forrest Withers entertained at a bridge tea at her home this week for Mrs. Robert R. Taylor and Mrs. Roy Odell, of New York. Mrs. John B. Wofford and Mrs. Marvin Smith poured tea from silver services at each end of the table. A moonlight blue monogrammed mirror decorated the center of the table with a miniature silver sail-boat afloat on it.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Q. Cleveland have as their guests in their Coral Gables home, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Quillian and their daughter, Miss Beverly Quillian.

Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Rush, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who are vacationing at Coral Gables Lodge, have just returned from a two-day fishing trip in the vicinity of Marco on the West Coast.

Mrs. F. B. Sublett, of San Bonito, Texas, is visiting her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gray, in their home on Granada Boulevard.

Mrs. LeRoy Renee, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Paul, of Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bradley, of Cleveland; Mrs. W. E. Chester, of Toronto; Mrs. B. M. Owens and E. F. Owens, of New York, have recently arrived to spend the winter at the Venetian Hotel.

Recent arrivals at the San Sebastian Hotel are T. M. Moore, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bickel, of Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Gertrude Baskin, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Yoder, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Richard Hardesty and his daughter, of Denver, Col., and Marshall Phillips, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor will give a tea at their home on Coral Way Sunday afternoon in honor of the new residents and winter visitors to Coral Gables. Mrs. Paul C. Warde will assist as hostess.

Garlands of Florida flame vine will be combined with vases of scarlet gladioli in decorating the house with a vivid, sub-tropical motif.

Mrs. Victorine Blanchard will be hostess at the next meeting of the Coral Gables Garden Club when Dr. H. S. Wolfe will speak on "Fruits for South Florida Gardens."

Home of the leading Metropolitan Miami night club stars and other talented artists have offered their assistance in making this year's garden fiesta of the Florida Association of Workers for the Blind at the home of Mrs. Frederick A. Norris on Leafy Way recently one of the season's outstanding affairs.

Don Lanning was master of ceremonies and among those taking part were Sophie Tucker, Mrs. Margaret Weaver Reid, contralto, Edna Sedgwick, acrobatic dancer, Ross Allen and his orchestra, the Sortelle Modern Ballet and Capt. Don Dickerman and his Pirates.

The League of American Pen Women recently gave a drama program at the home of Mrs. Kenneth S. Keyes in Coral Gables, Fla. Reviews of plays and sketches of playwrights were presented by Mrs. William W. McKibben, Mrs. William V. Little and Mrs. Thomas Keyes read an original play.

One of the smartest weddings of the season took place last week when Miss Phyllis Leona Webber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alburney E. Webber, of Bangor, Maine, became the bride of Robert Parker Frost. Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Webber entertained with a wedding dinner at the Miami Biltmore Hotel.

The golf course at the Miami Biltmore was dotted with twosomes and threesomes in bright colored sports togs this week. Mrs. John Arends, of Detroit, Mich., played with W. J. Davidson, of Detroit, and Sam H. Cook, of Syracuse. A. B. Wright and M. G. Thomas, of Dallas, Texas; Bernard Wood, John Redman and A. F. Ruch, of Albany, N. Y.; James S. Tupper, of Nashville, Tenn.; Hershel Martin, of Louisville, Ky.; William Smalley, William P. McNulty and M. S. Newcomb, all of Norwich, Conn., were noted among the players.

Rosalind Russell, the motion picture actress, was noted dining at the Miami Biltmore with a party of Palm Beach notables wearing a small coral-tinted cap with one of the new veils, dotted with blobs of blue velvet. The veils, which are sheer as mist, tie in saucy bows in the back of the hat giving it a piquant silhouette reminiscent of the "gay nineties."

UNDER THE STARS

THE Gala Presentation and Dinner Dance held last Saturday night at the Patio had one of the largest turnouts of the season to welcome Dwight Fiske who received an overwhelming ovation, and was recalled again and again for encores. Mr. Fiske will appear nightly at the Patio for a limited engagement only. On the same program with Dwight Fiske is Northway and Danilo, the famous international dancing stars, and Arthur Brown, Palm Beach's own favorite.

Starting last Sunday night at the Patio was the first of a series of "Sunday Night Movies," which will be a regular feature every Sunday night for the balance of the season. These pictures taken in Palm Beach and of Palm Beach people proved to be a great success and is being looked forward to every week by the patrons of the Patio.

Among the Palm Beach residents who dine and dance frequently at the Patio are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith, Mrs. James P. Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Moffett, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sanford, Mr. Woolworth Donahue. Captain the right Honorable Frederick E. Guest frequently entertains and many others. Probably one of the most unusual parties given at the Patio last week was one given by Mrs. Lacyjim Landsburg who had fifty guests for breakfast and cocktails.

In a recent issue of a celebrated periodical in the North a well known commentator remarked that the 1936 social register for Palm Beach could have been compiled from the registry of the Colony Club's Gala Night. These brilliant gatherings at the exclusive rendezvous are really noteworthy for their authentic representation from the Palm Beach Social Colony.

While the innumerable innovations in entertainment which feature the nightly programs of the exclusive club make each night at the Colony Club notable, Saturday night's Gala Carnival brings out the most interesting and representative of the Palm Beach gatherings.

With all of the pageantry and color which mark the smart weekly gatherings of socialites at the Gala Night, the throng of merrymakers were entertained by Deslys and Clark, Ernie Holst's musicians, the Siboney Orchestra and the vocal offerings of the Colony Club Trio.

One of the larger parties noted at the club was given by Mr. William Taylor in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Horgan, of New York, who are staying at the Breakers. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jaekel, Mr. and Mrs. R. Boyce Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nicholson, Mr. Howard D. Josselynn, Miss Grace McGerigle, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Marshman, Mr. Jack Whittemore and Mrs. Lee Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. James Oliver Cromwell entertained for a small party on the same night.

Ramon and Renita, internationally known dancing stars, are appearing for a short interval at Zelli's and have been received most enthusiastically by the many patrons who have been captivated by their grace and charm.

Massard Kur-Zhene and his versatile Persian orchestra, including Henne Borshar, charming girl violinist, and Tony Desmonde, wizard of the accordeon, have won the approval of dinner and supper guests with their original numbers, several of which have been composed by Kur-Zhene himself.

Eleanor Talcott, society girl singer, provides delightful vocal variations during the cocktail hour as well as during the dinner and supper periods, while Ross McLean, as master of ceremonies, introduces many unique innovations in the way of entertainment enlivening the evening, singing many request numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Porter, of North Tonawanda, N. Y., who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell Huntley, of Buffalo, at Jungle Nest, gave a most original French dinner party at Zelli's recently. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Schoellkopf, of Niagara Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knowlton, of Boston; also Mr. and Mrs. Edward Howland Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Hasler, Mr. and Mrs. J. NASSAU

The British Riviera

YOU see it first when your ship approaches the island of New Providence, when the bright Bahaman sun picks out the roofs and spires of old Nassau, the white beaches and the grim forts on the hills beyond. You see it there, just inside the harbour entrance, a great hotel rising from the palms of a garden estate that touches the changing blues and greens of the tropic waters.

This is the British Colonial, center of the smart resort-life that has made Nassau a British Riviera

Overnight from Miami

Florida, or two hours by daily airliner. Direct ships from Halifax, Boston and New York. For literature, hotel reservations, etc., address British Colonial Booking Director, 521 Fifth Avenue (Suite 2421-25), New York, N. Y.

The pleasures of your tropical holiday here include the comforts and Continental cuisine of this famous hotel . . . swimming in pool or surf, golf on a seaside course, yachting (with anchorage and landing at the hotel), tennis, horse racing, polo, deep-sea fishing . . . the varied interests of Nassau, from its gayety of night life to the fun of shopping for London and Paris imports.

'BEAUTY IS NOT A GIFT . . .

IT'S A HABIT"

SAYS

germaine monteil

FAMOUS FRENCH COUTURIER

"No gown in the world—be it fashioned from cloth of gold and hemmed with sables—can make a woman beautiful when age has etched cruel lines into her face. The secret every couturiere knows is this: a truly great gown is designed to call attention—not to itself—but to its wearer. And a great gown is bitter irony when its wearer has lost the clear radiance, the firm contours of youth."

The following women of distinction, acclaim these new beauty products as the perfect answer to their beauty problems.

Countess Therese De Carman Chimay
 Princess de Braganza
 Duchesse de Sangro
 Princess Robert de Broglie
 Princesse Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst
 Isabella Principessa Colonna
 Her Royal and Imperial Highness Archduchess Fanny

Germaine Monteil chooses the following shops in Palm Beach, Miami, and Miami Beach to present her exquisite cosmetics.

LISTEN TO WHAT THE YOUNGSTERS SAY!

*$765 to $1945 are the list prices of the new Buicks at Flint, Michigan, subject to change without notice. Standard and special accessories groups on all models at extra cost. All Buick prices include safety glass throughout as standard equipment. Convenient new GMAC 6% TIME PAYMENT PLAN

IT MEANS a great deal that the young people of America have swung wholeheartedly over to Buick as the stand-out "buy" of the year.

For young folks have an instinct that leads them to what's what in motor cars as surely as a setter's nose guides him to quail!

The new Buicks call clearly to youth — they were designed to — in the lean, clean, sleek look of them — in the exuberant vitality of their thrilling performance.

And from the outset, from the first glimpse, youth took them to their hearts — and voiced an enthusiastic vote for a modern car that's good to look at and sweet to handle as well as being aerodynamically right.

Maybe it takes an oldster's background to appreciate Buick engineering history — the sense of the great valve-in-head engine's straight-line combustion, of mastering vibration by precision instead of smothering it with rubber, of a power-shaft that leaves springs free to cradle the car.

But, give these youngsters a chance and they'll ferret out these and a dozen other good reasons why Buick is a better engineering buy than anything else at or near its price.

But, unless they want to, they don't have to go that deep! They know from its feel, from its manner, from its serene arrogant sureness in traffic snarl or on the open road that Buick is buoyantly able, eager, durable and dependable beyond match.

So, when you look at the four lines, four sizes, that make up the 1936 Buick offering, take the younger members of your family along. They'll help you pick the one that fits your purse and purpose.

NO OTHER CAR IN THE WORLD HAS ALL THESE FEATURES

Valve-in-Head Straight-Eight Engine . . . Anolite Pistons . . . Sealed Chassis . . . Luxurious "Turret Top" Body by Fisher with Fisher No Draft Ventilation . . . Tiptoe Hydraulic Brakes . . . Knee-Action Comfort and Safety . . . Torque-Tube Drive . . . Automatic Starting, Spark and Heat Control . . . Built-in Luggage Compartments . . . Front-End Ride Stabilizer.

TWELVE CYLINDERS POWER THIS NEW CAR OF MANY-SIDED APPEAL

THE first person who purchased a LINCOLN-ZEPHYR was the president of a railroad. A fair cross-section of owners reveals, also, eminent physicians . . . executives who travel much . . . society matrons with children of school age. Their reasons for buying this car are varied and practical. Underlying them all, typical of them all, is this: "It is a new kind of car. It offers a new kind of value!"

It is an unusual idea to place a 12-cylinder engine in a car of medium price. The engine itself is new. Designed by Lincoln, built by Lincoln, it is the culmination of years of research and experiment. It develops 110 horsepower. Because of its exclusive design; because of its great power and flexibility; because it pulls a car low in weight for its size, owners are getting 14 to 18 miles a gallon!

It is a new idea to streamline a car as fully as this car is streamlined. But the graceful, flowing contours simply grow out of the body structure beneath. Steel trusses form a rigid bridge over which steel panels are welded — top, sides, bottom. Six passengers, or one, are gently cradled in the framework, and poised forward of the rear axle. You ride near the center even when in the back seat.

It is a new idea, finally, to provide so much power, size, comfort in a car selling for $1275.

But a conviction of the builder is that engineering experience, precision methods, and vast resources, applied intelligently, can do what otherwise could not be done. This car combines Ford ability to give great value at low cost with the Lincoln tradition to build the best regardless of cost. It does for the medium-price field what these other cars do for their own fields.

Learn, today, what outstanding value Lincoln has built into a car new in idea, new in performance!

MEISSONIER AND SOROLLA

THESE great artists, as most people know, represent two opposite schools of painting.

Substitute the word "Tailor" for "Painter" and you have the best possible illustration for the difference in the two schools of tailoring.

Patrons of the former school examine and criticize their clothes through a microscopic eye, and are highly elated over their ability to discover the slightest discrepancy in any part of the garment. Carried to its ultimate conclusion, this school will produce a garment with the appearance of having been painted on the wearer; it will be lacking proportion and will have no expression—in fact, it will look inanimate.

On the other hand, the latter school demands a garment judged from a distance. It is entirely concerned with the general appearance of the wearer. This is art, and results, first, in the greatest of all essentials—comfort. It also combines smartness with comfort, presenting a certain negligee appearance that constitutes the effect of the well dressed man.

Left to his own devices, this is the school our best designers would prefer to cut for, but sad to relate, a great many men consider they are being well dressed to have their clothes painted on them, and for that reason, never reach the goal they are striving for.

If you grasp the significance of the man who is recognized as "well dressed," you will find it's because he refuses the precision of the tailor's dummy.

To produce clothes that look natural, fullness and drapery must be distributed in their proper place. This can only be attained by those having a complete knowledge of the basic laws of tailoring. To make clothes smooth is very simple in comparison.

When one studies the two schools of painting, the Sorolla school is the only one applicable to clothes. The beauty of his art is definitely appreciated in its perspective. The same thing applies to the well dressed man.

Choose well your tailor . . . make inquiries among men whose clothes you admire, and when you have made your decision, give your tailor a free hand and leave the responsibility to him.

An unusually clear cut aerial view of one of the most ingeniously designed golf courses in the world with the picturesque structure of the Seminole Golf Club with its graceful Spanish architecture shown near the white line of breakers.

THE SEMINOLE GOLF COURSE

STANDING on the terrace of the exclusive Seminole Golf Club it is possible to see every fairway and green on the unique course except the number five hole. Possibly no other course in the world is so completely visible in its beauty and architectural construction from almost any angle as the collection of immaculately groomed fairways, mirror smooth greens, tricky hazards and traps which comprise the incomparable golf course of the Seminole Club.

Dotting the course at intervals the chalk white of the sand in the traps adds tremendously to the character of the course in contrast with the vivid green of the fairways and the deeper hue of the clusters of palm trees. The traps startlingly white and clear cut bring the deep green of the groups of trees in sharp relief accentuating their finely etched lines and clearly defining them amid the beauties of the fairway.

Every fairway stretches out before you like a collection of enormous green carpets, with their well kept expanse of superbly groomed grass furnishing a picture to delight the heart of the true golfer, be he dub or champion.

Traveling over the ingeniously designed course is reminiscent of the several stages from courtship to marriage. The first is a comparatively easy par 4 with the minimum of obstructions to hinder the golfer who does not acquire his driving eye for several holes just as the canny damsel puts on her best face for the newly acquired boy-friend. As the course unfolds itself it emulates the young lady who knows that she has the young man too interested to turn back and begins to show its teeth, culminating in one of the toughest holes encountered on any course.

Passing over the first hole briefly. A good drive and an iron places the top-notchers of the club on the green 371 yards from the tee. The green is trapped on both sides with the back open to encourage boldness of play. This is characteristic of many of the holes; the minimum of penalty being noted for the shot which overruns the green.

The second hole is a 387 par 4 with a water hazard to carry from the tee and a plateau green 40 feet above the gradually ascending fairway to receive a long spoon or iron shot.

Your first shot on the third hole calls for a well placed drive to make a clear second shot possible. This is a dog leg from left to right and your initial shot leaves an extra long wood to a well trapped green, guarded left and right with a cross trap 80 yards short and the back wide open for a fine finish.

Standing on the fourth tee one encounters one of the most interesting par fours in the country. 439 yards to a green elevated at the top of a knoll with a series of cross hazards to carry for the second shot. From a scenic and a golfing standpoint this hole is outstanding. Viewing the course from the ridge on which the fourth tee rests one can see the entire golf course with the beautiful club house standing out against the dunes and the ocean in the background. The sparkling blue lagoons enhance the collection of lovely pictures presented in the panorama.

A bunkered green calling for a well placed shot is seen from the tee on the fifth, with traps left and right and back open. The tee is slightly elevated above the green. The 183-yard shot here is very deceptive and we would suggest that you take out your number four iron, glance at it speculatively, put it back into the bag and drag out your 2 iron if you wish to carry the green on this one.

Now the course begins to live up to its reputation as the trickiest course in the South. On the sixth a drive and good iron shot may put you on the green. However, with out-of-bounds to the right and trouble left and right it calls for extreme accuracy. Both shots must be made over a series of bunkers, the nearest 90 yards from the tee and the rest varying from midway to the edge of the green. The green is trapped on the left side.

An elevated tee on the seventh considerably above the fairway, looks out on rolling fairways and a lagoon which must be conquered before reaching the green. The fairways are well trapped right and left. If your drive carries the traps crossing the fairway there is still a most exacting shot over the lake to the green. 407 yards is the distance on this one and it is facetiously dubbed an easy par 4.

Number eight is a long drive to a fairly large green trapped on the left. The length of this hole is not readily discernible in viewing the green from the tee and many a guest player has stepped up to the tee confidently with his two iron to make the shot which demands a splendid drive.

On the ninth the long driving golfer is encouraged to turn loose his heavy artillery. Extra wide fairways give him ample room to bear down on his first shot. Perhaps you had better not lean on it too heavily for a water hazard crosses the fairway just 310 yards from the tee. Bunkers on the left and on the right guard the fairway about 80 yards from the green. The hole is a 461 yarder with a par 5.

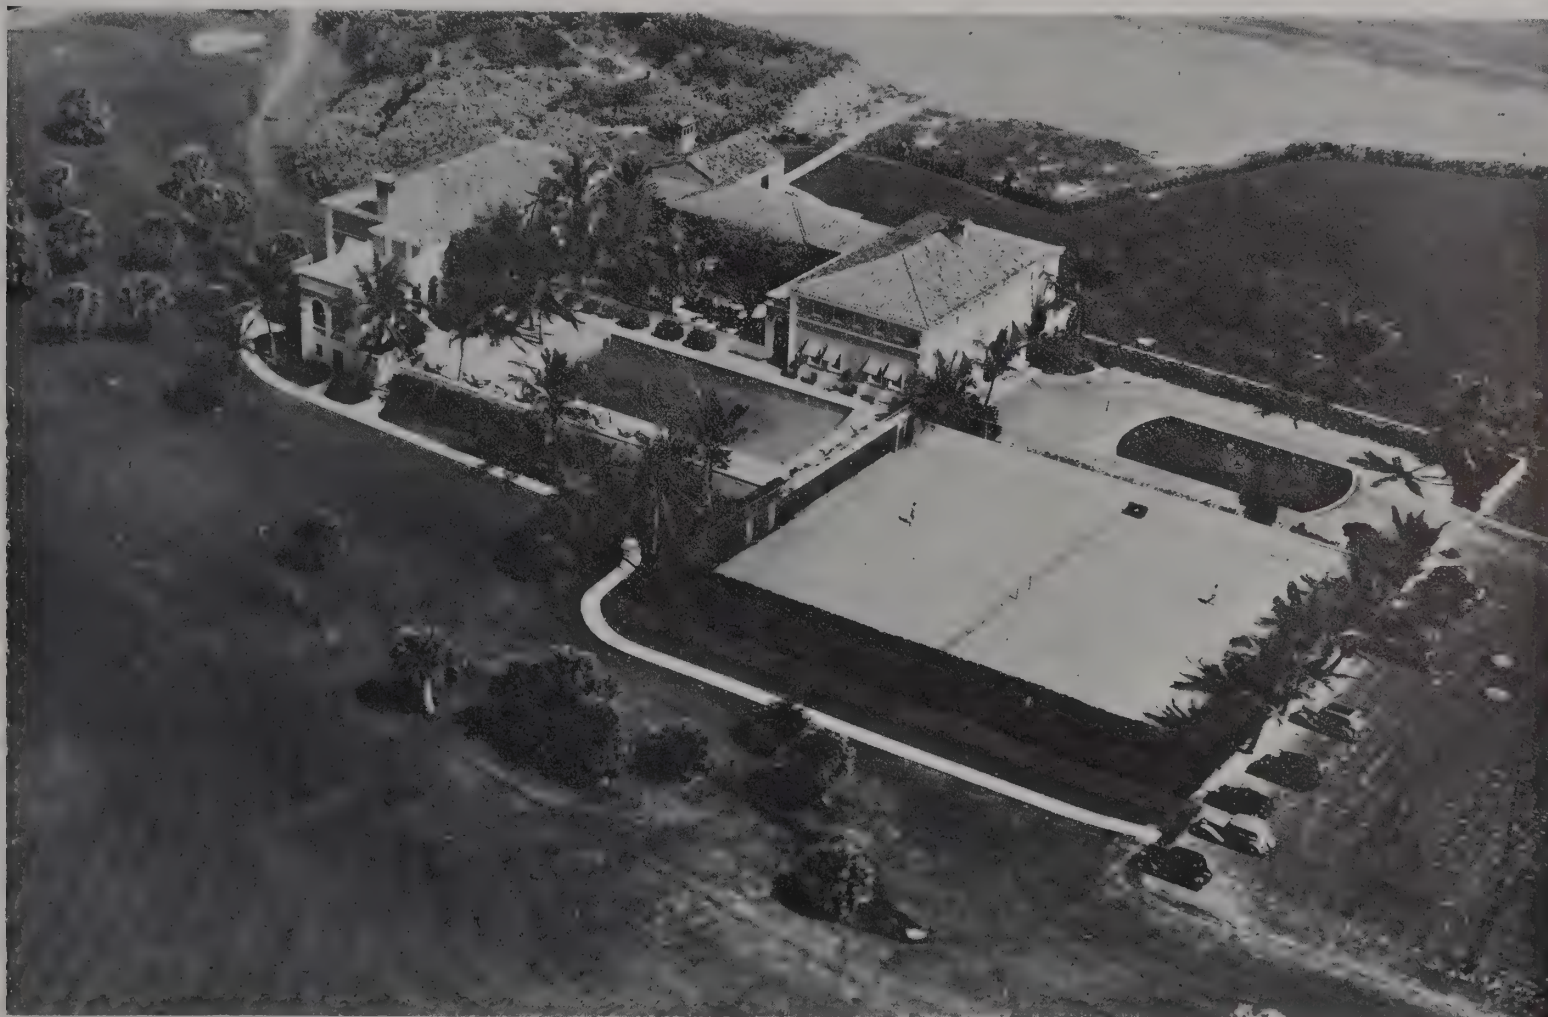

Having covered 3,325 yards on the first nine the shot-maker should be in top form at this stage in the game and he will need to be, for the tenth is one of those fiendishly designed holes with a water hazard guarding the green and a second shot of accuracy and strength necessary to come down safely on the green. The half-topped ball is suicidal here. Two on and two putts may be duck soup for the pros and the top-flight golfers among the members but this one is a profanity provoker to the man who plays in the horrible hundreds. One of the tombstones planted on the course in the Sunday afternoon tourneys should be placed in the middle of the lagoon on the tenth as a permanent reminder that fire and brimstone await the golfer who speaks his feelings from the heart after seeing several of his shots land just short of the green with a splash. 384 yards of headache for the dub.

Mr. Wilfrid Reid, club pro, calls the eleventh an exceptionally fine four and proves it by clipping it off with monotonous regularity in par or under, but the water carry from the tee across the lake and the second shot to a magnificently elevated green, trapped on the front and left side, looks like plenty of trouble to the player who doesn't keep his shots right down the middle. The golfer who lands his ball on the green in two on the eleventh deserves the wonderful opinion which all true golfers have of their own ability and the admiration from the fair members of his family which every golfer expects but never receives.

From an elevated tee, the 361 yards of the par 4 show a well guarded green at the end of a long expanse of green fairway. A carefully placed iron shot after a good drive is necessary to par this hole.

Golfers of the old school beam with delight upon viewing the thirteenth. A five or four iron shot to an unusually well trapped green 142 yards away calls for that masterful touch with the irons which enables the shot-maker to get plenty of loft on his ball following by a quick descent and plenty of kick-back on landing.

With a wonderful view of the ocean on one side and the lagoon dotted course on the other, the fourteenth with its tee resting on the sand dunes is a scenic treat and a tough par five. Two extra long woods and a pitch to another elevated green trapped left, right and front prove to be hard going in spite of the absence of water hazards; length 510 yards.

In progressing this far the visiting guest is struck by the uniformly velvet-like greens which he has encountered throughout the course. The glass-like smoothness of the putting surfaces discourages the most rabid alibier. If they don't drop into the cup on the greens of the Seminole they're simply not stroked right.

America's most unique par five hole is seen from the series of elevated tees gracing the approach to the fifteenth. A double fairway, with the one to the right calling for a tee shot of great length and accuracy whereas the course to the left offers no special obstacles to the player from the drive to the pitch shot for the green. The right fairway Fairly bristling with the splendidly formed tropical fruit this sturdy tree seems to be the Dionne of the coconut bearers with its five separate and distinct groups of future cake frostings.

A dog leg left to right, palmettos to right, and rough, long straggling traps from 160 to 225 yards away from the tee is the layout for the sixteenth hole. A well placed drive down the center leaves the player with a wonderful iron shot to a well trapped green at the foot of the sand dunes. Florida's premier golfer's heckler, the ubiquitous palmetto makes this hole an annoying experience for the golfer who specializes in off course shooting. Possibly there may be more exasperating roughs than the palmetto strewn expanses bordering the sixteenth but to the man who tries to play his ball where it lies, they are a worse experience than a visiting mother-in-law.

The seventeenth is a four to seven iron shot, depending on how the wind is blowing. A slightly elevated tee parallel to the sand dunes; splendidly trapped all around the green. Here it is possible to hook one into the sea or slice into the lagoon. With a battlement of traps around the hole and the water right and left the 117 yards of this par three hole presents plenty of grief for the erratic golfer and unusual interest for the good player.

In reaching the grand finale one finds that the architect for the course has not pandered to the happy ending last hole which most clubs feature. The eighteenth is one of the toughest holes on the course. A great par four with one tee elevated on the sand dunes on the left and an alternate tee on the right side which affords an excellent opportunity for a long accurate drive down the fairway.

AMONG THE PALMS

THE smart and luxurious hotels of the resort colony are continuing at the peak of the season's activities with throngs of guests including the most distinguished and elite members of the social world enjoying the incomparable hospitality of their chosen hotels.

The great ocean-front hotel, The Breakers, is filled to capacity with guests from all states of the Union, from Canada, London and Sweden. Social activities are at their height in the famous hostelry and the beautiful North Lounge has recently been in much demand for parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McSweeney, of Atlantic City, New Jersey, entertained a large company in the north lounge in celebration of Mrs. McSweeney's birthday. Guests were seated at one long table with floral arrangements of Pernet roses, lavender lilacs, blue delphinium, and daffodils. Favors for the ladies were attractive vanity cases and for the men pocket combs. Orchid corsages marked the places for the ladies, and Edward The Eighth boutennieres marked the places for the men.

The guests were Judge and Mrs. John W. Kephart, Mr. and Mrs. Eben H. Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kischel, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Moss, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. William MacNeill, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton G. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schoonmaker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Garmany, Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. Frances M. Barnes, Mrs. Thomas A. Briggs, Mrs. John duFais, Mrs. Frederick Proctor, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. William Ferris, Mrs. John Daly, Miss Ruth Thompson Wallace, Miss Louise Guyol, Miss Dell Robertson, Dr. H. L. Neitert, Mr. Robert C. Maxwell, Mr. William Robertson, Mr. Carl McCormack, and Mr. C. Percival Dietsch.

Mr. George Keim entertained recently at dinner honoring Mrs. M. Bernard Philipp, of New York, and her niece, Mrs. Paxton Rendigs, of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Eberhard Anheuser, of St. Louis, who are spending the season at the Breakers, gave a dinner honoring Mr. and Mrs. William Atwill, of Chicago, who are spending the winter at their home at Miami. Their guests, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Atwill, were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Feltman, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kolbach, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. William Forrester, Mrs. Lewis Shaw, Miss Alice Stafford, Mr. F. B. Gallie, Mr. James Platt, and Mr. James Ellison.

Among prominent social registerites who have arrived at the Breakers are Mrs. Kalt Treadway, of New York, who has joined her mother, Mrs. Henry W. Kalt, and brother, Pryor H. Kalt, also of New York.

Mr. John P. S. Harrison, of New York, has returned to the Breakers following a stay at Miami. Mr. Harrison has recently purchased a yacht and plans to take a fishing trip through the Florida Keys.

Mrs. Randall Morgan, of New York and The Breakers, accompanied by her niece, Miss Ann Fenner, of Southern Pines, are visiting in Cuba previous to returning to The Breakers. They made the trip by plane.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward S. Brackett, of Providence, R. I., where Dr. Brackett is a prominent surgeon, were recently the guests of Mrs. Alfred I. Lustig at The Breakers. Mrs. Lustig also recently entertained at dinner at The Breakers honoring Mr. and Mrs. Alan King DeWitt, of Providence, who were spending their honeymoon in Palm Beach.

The month of March finds the Hotel Seaglade crowded to capacity every night with many late season reservations on hand.

Among recent arrivals are Mrs. W. C. Douglas and her daughter, Miss Olive M. Douglas of Garden City, L. I., who came to join Mrs. Ernest Child and Miss Beatrice Child, who have been guests at the hotel for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hayden of New Haven, Conn., have joined the large New England colony wintering at the hotel. They are annual guests at the Seaglade and during the summer frequently visit at Heaton Hall in Stockbridge, Mass. Also from New England are Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kneeland of Winchester, Mass. Other recent arrivals include Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Whitley of Cleveland, O., Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Biggs, Highland Park, Ill., and Mrs. William Bole and Mrs. B. M. Howard of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The attractive rooms, beautiful suites and magnificent apartments at the Palm Beach Hotel are filled with a most cosmopolitan group. Among the prominent arrivals at the hotel are Mr. Ernest A. Barvoets and Miss Esther M. Barvoets of Albany, N. Y. And Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kinney of New Haven, Conn., Mrs. Edward L. McManus of Bronxville, N. Y., and Mr. F. J. Reardon of Jersey City, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hagan of Brooklyn, N. Y., are making a lengthy sojourn. Also Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McQuade of New York city, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Clare and Miss Mildred Clare of Montreal, Canada, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Donovan and Miss Margaret Donovan of Newton, Mass., Mrs. Joseph G. Gage and Miss Marjorie Gage of New York city, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Langmann of White Plains, N. Y., and Mrs. Mary Donohue and Miss Nell Donohue of Chicago.

Mrs. W. A. Rogers, 2d of Chevy Chase, Md., is a newcomer for the season and Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Rich with their children, Willard, Doris and Arthur of Buffalo, N. Y., have taken a suite of rooms.

The Brazilian Court, one of the first of the fashionable resort hostelrys to open, continues to be a favorite among smart winter visitors. Mr. and Mrs. George K. Livermore of New York and Three Acres, Lenox, Mass., are enjoying a late season visit here following a trip through Mexico.

Other socialites who are making their annual visit at the Brazilian Court are Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Brokaw and their daughters, the Misses Edna and Marguerite Brokaw, of New York. The Brokaws are prominently identified with resort society and are members of the Gulf Stream Golf, the Bath and Tennis, and the Everglades Clubs. For many years members of the cottage colony, they have made the Brazilian Court their winter home for the past two seasons.

Mr. and Mrs. John Frazier Jelke, Jr., of Lake Forest, Ill., have taken a suite at the Brazilian Court for the late season. They are popular among annual resort colonists and are members of many of the smart clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stafford of New York and Southampton, are spending several weeks at the Brazilian Court.

Arrivals from Easthampton include Dr. and Mrs. Dudley Roberts, who are passing the month at the Brazilian Court following several weeks visit to Nassau. Mr. and Mrs. John T. Sherman and their daughter, Miss Dorothea Sherman, have joined the Easthampton colony at the hotel.

NASSAU

A SPANISH FIESTA, one of the series of Gala Friday evenings was held in the Marine Grill of the British Colonial here. The elaborate floor show featured such stars as Ernest McChesney, tenor; formerly of the Ziegfeld Follies, who has just completed a series of Sunday Concerts at the Waldorf-Astoria; Grace Morgan, sophisticated songstress from the Rainbow Room and Weylin Caprice Room; Elenore Tennis, Premier Danseuse of the Capital Theatre Tarrant and Dacita, dance artists from the Hotel Pennsylvania, Bob Sperling and his 11-piece orchestra, and the "El Caney" Cuban Quartette.

John DuPuy of Pittsburgh, accompanied by his pilot, Ben Miller, are staying at a cottage at Cable Beach while a plane is being prepared for them in Palm Beach for an expedition to Venezuela to conduct an ethnological research for the government. William Eddie, who was Wiley Post's partner at Oklahoma City before Post attained international flying fame, will bring the plane here and they expect to leave this week by way of Cuba and Haiti. They will establish headquarters at Port-of-Spain, Trinidad.

Arrivals at the British Colonial for a week or more include: Mrs. C. A. Rogers and Miss Mary Alice Rogers, of Pittsburgh, John LaGatta of Sands Point, L. I., Mrs. Montgomery Harris of Gwynedd Valley, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dewar of London, F. P. Crane of New York, Mrs. Bernarr Macfadden of Englewood, N. J., and daughter Mrs. B. E. Muckerman of New York, John Monk Saunders, Frank Sadlier, Richard Koret, Mrs. James Lee, Miss Sara Elkus, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sadlier, Mrs. Bernice de Many, Dr. Gustave Aufrecht and George Djamgaroff, all of New York.

The final heat of the yacht races for the King's Cup sponsored by the Royal Nassau Sailing Club, located at the British Colonial quay, was held Saturday afternoon. The Hon. Sir Bede Clifford, is Commodore of the Club; Frank C. Munson, Vice-Commodore, Col. Henry L. Doherty, Honorary Vice-Commodore; Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., and the Hon. Walter K. Moore, Rear-Commodores; Harry P. Sands, Honorary Treasurer; and H. E. Aspinall Honorary Secretary.

The second heat will take place Wednesday, March 11, and the last heat on Friday, March 13. The Ladies' Race for the Dr. James C. Ayer Cup will be sailed on Saturday, March 14. The Hon. Sir Bede Clifford, K. C. M. G., Governor of the Bahamas, is Commodore of the Royal Nassau Sailing Club. His boat "Malice Scourge" won the King's Cup in the yacht race last Saturday, being nearly half a mile ahead of the Hon. W. K. Moore's "Joanna". Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., is rear-commodore of the Club.

The annual Bahamas Aquatic Championships was held on Tuesday, March 3, in the British Colonial Swimming Pool under the direction of Hank Akers, Jr., member of the Miami Biltmore Swimming and Diving Team, and R. J. Robertson, President of the Nassau Aquatic Club. The girl's events had more entries this year than ever before. A feature of the Championships was the final water polo match for the Halcyon Shield, presented by R. T. Symonette, Commodore of the Nassau Yacht Club.

The annual flower show of the Nassau Garden Club was held Thursday, March 5, in the Government House Grounds under the distinguished patronage of the Hon. Sir Bede Clifford, K. C. M. G. Governor of the Bahamas, and Lady Clifford.

The competition for children dressed in flower costumes lead past the judges by the three little daughters of Governor and Lady Clifford, Anne, Pandora and Atlanta. There were two classes, one for children from the ages of one to six, and another from seven to twelve.

The Spanish Fiesta, the third in a series of Gala Saturday evenings at the British Colonial was held Saturday evening, March 7, in the Marine Grill, with an entirely new floor show, featuring Grace Morgan, sophisticated songstress, direct from the Rainbow Room at Rockefeller Centre and the Caprice Room of the Weylin; Elinor Tennis, danseuse of the Capitol Theatre, and Tarrant and Dacita, ballroom dancers from the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Ulrich, Mrs. Roger Girodolle, Mrs. P. Bernard Philipp, Dr. and Mrs. John H. Carlock, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hollister and Mrs. Charles T. Heaslip, all of New York City.

Also, Kenneth Hoffman of Larchmont, N. Y., Lady Howard de Walden and Mrs. Fitz Clarence of London, England, Mrs. John Stedman of Morristown, N. J., Mrs. E. H. Bradley of Fairfield, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Kerr of Brooklyn.

Sailing for Nassau from Miami recently aboard the Clarke steamship New Northland was His Eminence Cardinal Patrick Hayes of New York, who is expected to remain in the British resort until April. With the Catholic leader were Papal Marquis George MacDonald, the Very Reverend Monsignor Vincent Arcese and the Very Reverend Monsignor John J. Casey, secretary to Cardinal Hayes.

Recent New Northland passengers included Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Coyle of Detroit. Mr. Coyle is president of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

Hamon Fisher, New York cartoonist, creator of "Joe Palooka", returned to Miami via the New Northland after a holiday in Nassau.

Fred W. Rust, whose recent volume "A Song of Nassau and Other Verses" attracted widespread attention, arrived in Nassau recently with Mrs. Rust. The Rusts are from Boston.

Enroute to London via Miami and New York after a holiday in Nassau, the Hon. Sir William M. Berry, British journalist, and his bride Lady Pamela M. E. Berry, were among prominent New Northland passengers. Sir Berry is the son of Lord Camrose.

Others voyaging on the New Northland included Mr. and Mrs. George E. Mears, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Andre Dorfman and daughter Irma, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hodson, Roxborough, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. McKay vanVleet, Memphis; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Stevens, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson, Forest Hills, L. I.; and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Austin, Glencoe, Chicago.

THE GREENBRIER, WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS

THE GREENBRIER, White Sulphur Springs, has for many years been the spring residence of the smart set of Palm Beach, and each year an increasing number of resort notables stop there en route North.

White Sulphur Springs is located in a spacious valley of rolling green, ringed 'round with wooded hills. Range upon range of the Alleghenies stretching away into the distance. A perfect climate, the sun-filled spaces cooled by mountain breezes. Sparkling streams cutting the forest fast clay courts. Lunch at the Casino, on a wide veranda looking across the links to the hills. Linger on the terrace and watch golfers drive off the famous first tee of the "Old White" Course. Return to the hotel for tea during the organ concert.

Have a late afternoon in the Baths and recuperate from the wear and tear of the hectic world. Dine on the terrace and dance to the music of a nationally famous orchestra. See the latest sound pictures in the auditorium.

Another day motor or take a bridal trail to Kate's Mountain Club. Lunch, tea or dine before a roaring fire, while the inimitable Viennese, Fred and Helen, entertain you in the manner of the Old World.

If you are of a mind for motoring, the Virginias offer colorful scenery, spots rich with legends of early days, and places whose names go back to the threshold of American history. Or fly—the modern way of sight-see'ng. Take a Greenbrier plane to Richmond or Washington and be back for dinner.

If you prefer a family life of simplicity and informality, a Greenbrier cottage will afford peace and security, at the same time offering the service and facilities of The Greenbrier itself.

Tall-columned, white and majestic, The Greenbrier stands in its own park of seven thousand acres. World-renowned for its beauty, for the perfection of its furnishings and appointments, it has brought to America the life of the great resorts of Europe. The health-giving properties of the waters make the White Sulphur "Cure" rank with those of Continental spas.

The distinction of its guests, the color and cosmopolitan brilliance of its life, the grace of its entertainment, the ritual of its service, have established The Greenbrier as a hostelry of international fame. "Nothing like it in this country" is the usual verdict of the parting guest.

CHAMPIONSHIP POLO AT GULFSTREAM

THE CLICK of mallet and ball echoes at Gulfstream with real championship rhythm and muffled thunder of flying hoofs is drowned by the cheers and horn blowing of the spectators.

At the Gulfstream Polo Club aeroplanes circle lazily overhead. Smartly turned-out grooms step briskly around picket lines of thoroughbred horses. On surrounding boulevards and on the Dixie Highway hundreds of cars push onward toward the green field. Never in all Florida's history and association with big-time polo, has there been a season as auspicious as that going on gathering momentum today.

For polo players and polo enthusiasm has captured the civic pride of Palm Beach and vicinity and fans of the sporting world and horsemen and their wives and visiting lovers of polo from far and near will rally 'round attracted by the fact that the best mounts and most of the top riders in the galloping game are competing on fast local fields.

Displaying one of the finest exhibitions of team-work and hitting accuracy seen at the Gulfstream Polo Club at any time this season, Charles B. Wrightsman and his hard riding Texans defeated Prince Serge Mdivani's strong Georgian team by the crushing margin of 16 to 3 in the first round of the Southeastern championship.

Cecil Smith, world famous polo star, riding for the Texans, ran wild, chalking up a total of nine goals, while C. B. Wrightsman added four to the score, with W. B. Reynolds making two and Robert Bullock at back for the Texans, tallying one.

Taking the lead in the early periods, the Texans were never headed, scoring at will and clearly demonstrating their superiority over the Georgians, with one of the largest galleries of the season watching the play.

E. W. Hopping and Winston Guest, both nationally known players, failed to get started for the Georgians, although they each tallied one goal.

Sharing the bumps and the glory with Cecil Smith, Winston Guest playing the position he likes best, the Back post, although it was at No. 2 that he first made a name for himself in polo as captain of Yale's championship intercollegiate teams. Guest has been one of the most discussed players of the age—and his age. But two years out of college, Winston Guest, at Back, was the outstanding star of the 1928 international series with Argentina. In the big matches with the Army-in-India team the previous year, young Guest was a substitute. He has been in every important polo match since then, including a triumphant tour of the Argentine when the team he played on galloped home with the South American Open Championship and the Championship of the Americas. In the series, called unofficially the internationals, with Argentina in 1928 (the only official International Series in polo is with Great Britain), Guest, then a twenty-two year old marvel, for the first time went in at Back, replacing at the last minute—on the very eve of the big matches—J. Cheever Cowdin—a substitution that has been the subject of much comment and bitter controversy in polo circles the world over. Today Cowdin is out of polo, having retired shortly after that and sold his perfect string of mounts, and Guest goes on gathering momentum at Back, a position he is expected to hold down on this year's United States international team defending the historic Westchester trophy against England in London this June.

It is interesting to recall that at the same time Guest replaced Cowdin in those memorable matches of 1928, another well-known Gulf Stream player, Stephen (Laddie) Sanford, who broke his leg last week on Delray fields, and whose polo fortunes have taken a remarkable jump in the last few years, was named for one game in place of W. Averill Harriman at the No. 1 position. Next to Sanford, Harriman at that time was probably the best mounted man in the game, a distinction that today might easily go to Charles B. Wrightsman who has some really marvelous Argentine ponies simply flying with their bellies to the ground—along Gulf Stream turf these days. Don't miss those Wrightsman ponies this afternoon! One of the Wrightsman string that is famous already on two continents and is soon to invade Europe for more laurels is Papeta, a flashy little chestnut with a blazed-face that Bob Bullock will ride this afternoon. Papeta won for several years in succession the coveted prize annually given by the Argentine Polo Federation for the best playing pony in the Open Championship "down under." Sanford, incidentally in those old days, paid $22,000 for Jupiter, famous chestnut gelding of Lewis Lacey, captain of the Argentine team, at the pony auction following the games. And Jupiter was never played in this country with any of the success of some of the Wrightsman mounts that is as famous a string as will ever flash in front of your eyes this afternoon. According to one old timer, who should know, there are approximately half a million dollars worth of visiting horseflesh stabled in Gulf Stream box stalls right now. How about sparing a dollar to have a look at them in action?

Much interest is displayed these days in the ponies, as well as the players. So get out to Delray this afternoon and join the big crowd. It looks like a great day for local polo fans with Guest and Smith fighting it out, some of the most famous mounts in the world on display—not to mention Cyril Harrison, one of the best mallet men in polo and Earle W. Hopping, veteran winner of many championship cups here and abroad, and in short, the Royalty of the polo world as well as of Palm Beach society and Florida sporting circles will be very much on parade.

Guest and Smith, now rated at eight-goals, were last year ranked at nine along with Tommy Hitchcock, which was the highest ranking at that time. The year before, Smith, Hitchcock and Elmer Boeseke of California led the field with three individual ten goal ratings, the first time in the history of the sport that three men had rated so high. This year of course Hitchcock has returned to the top ranking, ten goals, following his sensational play last summer and with the exception of the Anglo-American, Gerald Balding, who got a nine-goal rating, no other player in the entire country has a rating of more than eight goals. Today, right here at the Gulf Stream Polo Club, there are three eight-goal stars, all three of whom are to ride against England in London this June in the International matches. They are Michael Phipps, out of today's game because of a sudden trip out of town for a few days; Winston Guest, and Stewart Iglehart who arrived from New York yesterday in time to get in a round-robin practice skirmish Saturday but not in time to line-up in this afternoon's important game. Iglehart has been playing hockey in New York with the celebrated Rovers in Madison Square Garden and as he has also had considerable indoor polo play this winter, he should be in shape for following rounds of the Southeastern Championships to be played next week.

The hard-riding, hard-hitting pair, Guest and Smith, should stage tremendous duels of long hitting in today's contest. When they ride the fans are sure to get an afternoon of thrills. They take all kind of chances. Smith and Guest are to polo what Babe Ruth was to baseball and what Tilden is to tennis—they have the sock appeal. Both can hit the ball over half the length of the field. With hilarious cries of "Leave it! Back me up!" they'll ride through from the back positions at top speed and their beautiful stroking is a treat to watch. A few years ago, we saw Cecil Smith playing in Chicago in those famous East-West matches when Smith was just about the greatest player in the world. The big Texan, then at nine-goals, was ever a gallant figure, now storming all over the field, scoring from prodigious distances . . . several times he was on the ground, but even on the ground, Cecil was superb. We saw him knocked-out cold for twenty minutes and get up to laugh an ambulance away and climb aboard his pony once more. Somebody said recently that Smith has not fully recovered from that bad fall in Miami about ten days ago, that his badly bruised left shoulder still bothers him considerably . . . well, Cecil Smith played last Thursday, sore shoulder and all, and we'll still say that Smith is pretty marvelous any way you want to look at him.

George Oliver, well-known here in past season's play, who rides at Miami today, will also be seen at Gulf Stream next week and in the forthcoming Southeastern Championships getting under way at Delray in the not distant future. He is the local boy who made good at Miami last week, going in for the great Smith when the latter was injured and playing a bang-up game, accounting for four goals. Other high-goal visiting stars expected here soon include Jimmie Mills, seven-goal ace from Long Island, young Stewart Iglehart, eight-goal Internationalist, and Raymond Guest, enroute back to Palm Beach after competing against the visiting British players on the Pacific Coast. It is interesting to note that Gulfstream, winter capital of eastern polo, has three members of this year's American team that will journey aboard and defend the international trophy against England in London this June—Michael Phipps, Stewart Iglehart and Winston Guest. The latter, long-known as "the Crown Prince of American Polo" with Tommy Hitchcock, the ten-goal king, last year was ranked along with Cecil Smith, also here, and Hitchcock, at nine goals handicap which was at that time the highest rating in the sport. Smith also is slated for play abroad this spring as Charles Wrightsman is taking his crack team, upon which Eric Pedley, California's lone member of the U. S. International squad, will also ride, abroad for a spectacular European invasion starting with the shipment of their ponies from here early in April.

In past years the two really perfect polo fields and one very fine practice turf—with a new field under construction—at Gulfstream were maintained privately by Mr. J. S. Phipps and his brothers, Henry C., and Howard Phipps and their families and players came by invitation. Realizing that the conditioning process for both ponies that have been turned out for months and players long out of the saddle takes plenty of time, it was originally the thought of Mr. J. S. Phipps to have a winter training ground here for the serious work of Meadow Brook polo on Long Island to come. Truly there would seem little excuse for a mount or player not being "fit" when the strenuous campaign rolls around up north after an active season down here in the sunshine under the sheltering protection of towering Royal palms. That Mr. Phipps' idea has worked out to perfection has been proven during the last few years when it is realized that in 1934, Gulf Stream teams went on to Long Island and won five principal events, not only winning the two twenty-goal tournaments at the famous Meadow Brook Club (the team was known in the north as The Hurricanes, with Laddie Sanford, C. B. Wrightsman, Michael Phipps, and Bob Bullock) but also four regular Gulf Stream men playing as Templeton, with the identical colors of Gulf Stream (Michael Phipps, Winston Guest, Stewart Iglehart and Raymond Guest) captured the Open Championship of the United States, America's greatest polo prize, and then went on to win the Monty Waterbury handicap event as well. In 1934, the sixteen-goal Autumn Plates Meadow Brook tournament was also won by the Gulf Stream team of Wrightsman, Ben Phipps, Mike Phipps and Frank Fuller and in 1935 a Gulf Stream Four (Ben Phipps, Billy Reynolds, also playing here this season, Terence Preece and Barney Balding won the big twenty-goal flat event at Meadow Brook, the Westbury Challenge Cup. Of eight players that played in the finals of the Meadow Brook Cup, one of the most historic of nationally-famous tournaments in the north, seven of them were regular Gulf Stream alumni.

Last year the informal arrangements were somewhat changed and enlarged and today the Gulf Stream Polo Club is a duly incorporated club, controlled by a board of stewards, a club which is a member of the United States Polo Association, and the whole successful polo plant has been, for several years now, placed under the exceptional able management of Meadow Brook's famous director of operations, Joseph J. Dowling.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

ATTRACTING a world of interest and breaking all records so far as the number of sailfish caught was concerned, the annual Silver Sailfish Derby has popularized the Palm Beaches as the Sailfish capital of the world.

Mr. Jack deRuyter of Oyster Bay, L. I., well known winter visitor, won the replica of the Silver Sailfish given in the length class, his fish measuring 8 feet 7½ inches.

Another Oyster Bay angler, Mr. Daniel W. Smith, won the Col. Edward R. Bradley trophy, a beautiful silver tray with two silver sailfish on the handles, for the heaviest sailfish, weighing 82½ pounds. Each had his sailfish mounted while Mr. de Ruyter received a rod and reel for the longest sailfish entered in the last week of fishing.

More than 550 sailfish were landed during the period of 23 days the Derby ran with a total of 1575 sailfish having been landed during the season, up to that time.

Approximately twenty-two gold button fish were brought in during the Derby.

Mr. Charles R. Davis of Maysville, Ky., landed one measuring 8 feet, one-quarter inches while out aboard the Yum Yum and Mr. Henry Oliver Rea, chairman of the fishing committee of Sewickley, Pa., brought in one measuring 8 feet, one inch while out aboard the Edorea IV. Mrs. Alvin Austin of New York city brought in one 7 feet, eight inches while out aboard the Calumet.

Miss Reba Kendall, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bedford of Bellport, L. I., and Palm Beach, entered a sailfish measuring 7 feet, 2½ inches while out aboard the Fun with Capt. Kenneth Foster.

Mrs. E. N. Townsend, Jr., of Lotus Valley, N. Y., brought in a sailfish measuring 7 feet, 2½ inches while out with Mr. E. N. Townsend, Mr. Elec Vietor and Mr. Royal Whitman.

Mr. Allston Sargent of Bronxville, N. Y., guests at the Breakers, landed another unusually large "sail," measuring 8 feet, 4¼ inches. Mr. D. C. Gerli brought one in measuring 7 feet, 8 inches, while Mr. David Selleck Baldwin of Norwalk, Conn., 13 years old, landed one measuring 7 feet, 4 inches. Mr. Hamilton Adler of New York, accompanied them. They were out with Capt. Mel Elderd aboard the Juliana from Poinciana basin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ripley of New York landed two sailfish, one measuring 6 feet, 2 inches and the other 7 feet, 8 inches. Mr. George Hahn of Sewickley, Pa., landed a sizeable sailfish while out aboard the Edorea.

Mr. Victor Hammer landed his first sailfish off Palm Beach with Mr. Joseph Citron, who also landed a sizable specimen. Mr. Hammer's fish measured 7 feet, 2½ inches, while that of Mr. Citron's was 7 feet in length. They were out aboard the Yum Yum.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lyons, who are guests at the Breakers, both landed large sailfish while out recently, their catches measuring approximately 7 feet, 6 inches each. They were fishing aboard the Black-Jack with Capt. Rudy Steinhauser from Poinciana basin.

Two well known resort anglers each hooked seven sailfish while on trips to the Gulfstream.

Mr. Louis Horowitz of New York, a guest at the Breakers, landed seven sizable sailfish while out aboard the "Fun," with Capt. Ken Foster from Poinciana basin, and Mr. Niles Babbitt, member of the Sailfish Club and Breakers guest, who recently landed a record marlin, brought in seven also while out with Capt. Knowles aboard the "Margie."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schenck 3rd, of New York, had an interesting day's fishing, Mr. Schenck landing a sailfish measuring 7 feet, 4 inches and weighing 46 pounds. Mrs.

Schenck landed her first sailfish about a week ago, which measured about the same as Mr. Schenck's. They also caught about twenty other fish of many varieties including kings, bonita, albacore, barracuda and dolphin. They were out with Capt. John Weihe aboard the If-2nd.

Mr. A. Parker Bryant and Mrs. Bryant in company with Mr. Robert Appleton and other friends spent the day in the Gulfstream, with Mr. Bryant bringing in a beautiful marlin swordfish measuring 7 feet, 10 inches and weighing 83 pounds. The huge fish gave Mr. Bryant a thrilling battle but he succeeded in landing it after about 35 minutes. Mr. Appleton also hooked a marlin but lost it when the line parted after about 20 minutes struggle. They were out aboard the Juanita D.

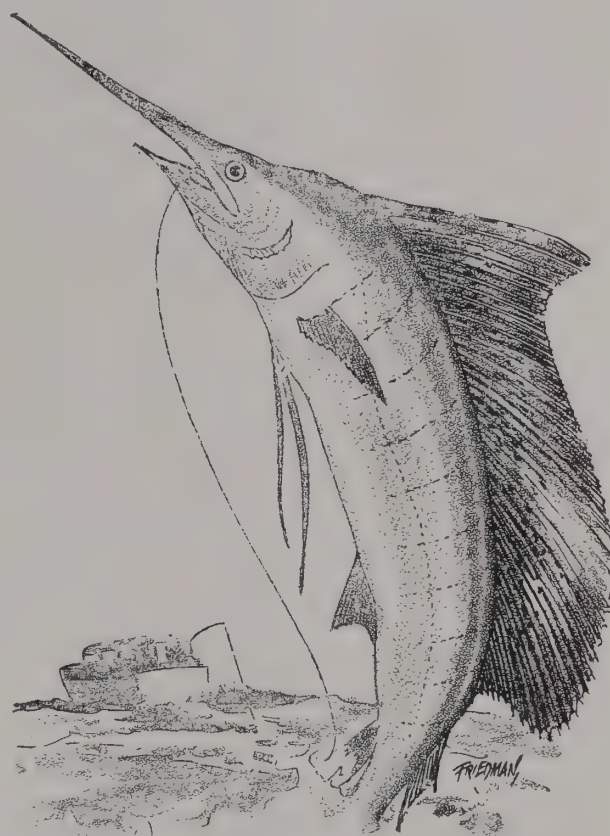

Mr. Lee Parsons Davis, of New Rochelle, N. Y., former district attorney for Westchester county, New York, who is staying at Jack Russell's famous sport club, landed a large sailfish measuring 7 feet, 4 inches and weighing 50 pounds.

The interesting fact about the catch was that he used light tackle consisting of a four-ounce tip and nine-thread line, more suitable for landing smaller fish than for a battle with such a large "sail."

A veteran of salmon fishing in New Brunswick, Mr. Davis used the smaller tackle and experienced an added thrill in bagging the sailfish after 55 minutes of skillful maneuvering. He was out with Capt. Harry Hunt aboard the Imp from Poinciana basin.

Mrs. Ferdinand Mayer became a seasoned angler by virtue of landing five sailfish during a day's expedition to the Gulfstream.

During the morning she hooked eight sails, landing four large specimens. In the afternoon while fishing with Mr. Harry Rosenfeld and Mr. William Graves, she added another to her enviable catch which puts her in top position as a feminine angler of the resort colony. They were out with Capt. Walter Githens, aboard the "Miss Sally,"

Thrills galore attend the hooking of the acrobatic sailfish, whose gyrations test the mettle of the most seasoned angler, in an effort to bring it safely alongside.

NEWS OF THE AIRWAYS

AVIATION activity within the resort has been greater than ever this season, with many visitors coming by private and chartered planes and a number quartering them out at the Waco-Belvedere Airport.

A great many air-minded resorters have been exceedingly generous in giving much time and effort toward aiding construction of the new municipal airport which is fast nearing completion.

When finished and put in a class A standing, the Town of Palm Beach stands ready to take it over and operate it, affording the resort communities with one of the best airports in the entire South.

During the season the resort plays host to many prominent figures in aviation circles, including Mr. Grover Loening, one of the outstanding airplane executives in the country.

Mr. James M. L. Rutherford, noted speed-boat pilot and reserve officer in naval aviation, has a fast plane quartered at the Waco-Belvedere airport. Others who are familiar figures in national aviation circles also quarter their planes at the field during the winter months, including Mr. George Kent, Jr., Mr. Robert D. Huntington, Mr. Peter Brooks.

Mr. Howard Hughes, who holds trans-continental flying records and who has won many events at various air meets throughout the country, dodges in and out of the airport during the season while Miss Suzanne Humphries, youthful feminine flyer of note, visits the local airport frequently.

Mr. John H. Phipps has a Fairchild cabin plane at the field while others with planes at their disposal include Mr. Barron Lambert with a Waco plane, who is staying at Whitehall, Mr. Edgar Cahn, also a guest at Whitehall.

Mr. Jules S. Bache, noted financier, recently flew to California on business, while recent arrivals include Mr. Tom Patten, of Dallas, Texas, who arrived in a Stinson, and Mrs. Louisa Carpenter, of Wilmington, Del., who has two planes quartered at the field.

Interviewed on his return from a brief trip to Havana via Pan American Clipper, Harlee Branch, assistant United States postmaster general in charge of air mail, predicted scheduled one-day trans-Atlantic air mail service for 1937.

"The average layman has no conception of the rapidity in which Pan American Airways of America, Imperial Airways of England and the aviation companies of several other European countries have cooperated in advancing trans-Atlantic service," said the keen-minded official.

"Interest in the Atlantic service has been greatly stimulated by the remarkable showing of the China Clipper and I believe that within the next year we will see five-day passenger flights to China."

H. C. Dobbs, Jr., Eastern Division traffic manager for Pan American Airways reports an increase of 856 passengers, or 17 per cent, during the past thirty days, as compared with the same period last year. The 4080 international air travelers of last year leaped to just under 5,000 during this year's first thirty days.

At present well over 5,000 international air travelers per month are clearing through the International Pan American Airport here.

Clipper ships from Miami now make direct runs all the way down the South American east coast to Rio and Buenos Aires via the West Indies, moving the southern continent two days closer to the United States than ever before. The 15,000-mile round trip Miami to Buenos Aires is equal to 2-3 of the distance around the world and is made in 11 days' travel time touching at 26 ports in 16 countries and colonies.

BEACH PANORAMA

AS THE season advances no slackening of beach activities is noted at the various clubs of the resort. From an early hour in the morning until well into the afternoon, the sands are dotted each bright day with sun baskers, who have from weeks of exposure, become brown as the proverbial berry.

The beach at the Breakers Cabana Club is one of the bright spots along the ocean front. Gay sports apparel and beach equipment add color to the scene, and during the bathing hour cabana row is the setting for many pleasantly informal gatherings. Gabrielle's buffet on the terrace contributes its share to the attractiveness of this popular beach club, and the luncheon hour finds the small, umbrella-shaded tables overlooking the sea, occupied by bathers and beach visitors.

Mrs. Henry Morgan Tilford paid one of her infrequent visits to the beach last week, where she is an annual cabana holder.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Savage of Chicago have arrived to occupy their cabana, which they engaged early in the season. A family group noted each bright day with Mr. and Mrs. Eben Howes Ellison includes their daughter, Mrs. William E. Ferris and Mrs. Ellison's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Z. Poli of New Haven, Conn., have come to the Breakers after a few weeks sojourn in Miami Beach, and paid their first visit to the beach last week when they were the guests of Mrs. Frederick F. Procter. Also with her were Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Jackson.

Joining Mrs. Charles R. Sherlock and Mrs. Bingham Plunkett at their cabana recently were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eckert of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bode, Mrs. Charles Weigand and Mr. George H. Keim.

Marine carnivals have stolen the spotlight at the Sun and Surf Club, with the interesting backgammon tournaments temporarily being outshone by the spectacular water displays. While bridge, backgammon and the rejuvenated "mah jong" are still well represented at Jack Mitchell's sea-side sports center, the more colorful out-door amusements have attracted the majority of the members.

Cabana, terrace and patio luncheons are as always well represented with many gay parties witnessed recently on the broad terraces fronting the beach cottages. The excellently appointed cabanas have been the scene of an unusual amount of social activity this season.

Sun bathers find the clean white sands and the solarium atop the bath-house ideal for basking in the bright rays of the tropical sun, while their more active contemporaries dash about following their respective bents in sport and play.

Noted on the pool terrace at one of the many sparkling luncheon parties recently at the club were Mr. Percy Mendelssohn and a party of friends who formed a merry group near the one and three meter boards.

One of the larger groups noted was a party comprised of Mr. James Ellison and his guests, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Calder, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cooper, Mrs. A. R. Davis, Mrs. Hayward Kendall and Mrs. Lee Pierce.

The brightly colored umbrellas on the Sea Spray beach blend with the smart beach costumes of the host of members visiting the club daily. Many members participate in fast tennis games, clever boxing bouts and graceful diving exhibitions during the day. Among the recent new members joining the club are Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Huffman, of New York city and Brazilian Court; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hooker, Martinsville, Va., and 128 Sea Breeze Avenue; Mrs. Violet W. Cruger, Everglades Club, and Mrs. G. McCall Isham, of New York city and Vineta.

MIAMI

PARAMOUNT interest centers about the wedding of Miss Helen Lee Doherty, popular daughter of Col. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty of New York, Nassau and Coral Gables, to Theodore William Wessel of Copenhagen, Denmark, brother of Chilean ambassador at Denmark. The wedding took place February 28 in Managua, Nicaragua.

The marriage climaxed a romance that began when Miss Doherty accompanied the famous woman diplomat, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, to Denmark some years ago.

The spacious halls of the presidential manisons, atop Tiscapa Hill, overlooking Managua, were filled with a colorful throng of socially prominent guests from all sections of the country, as the bride, gowned in a Nicaraguan made white satin wedding dress with a bridal veil of illusion, falling from a wreath of orange blossoms, walked to the altar on the arm of President Sacasa.

Little girls and boys of prominent families, who acted as pages, preceded the bride, scattering orange blossoms.

Senoritas Maruca Sacasa and Ernestina Moeira, the president's daughter and niece, attended the bride.

Judge Ramirez Guillen, performed the ceremony as the president gave the bride in marriage. Supreme Court Justice Doctor Federico Sacasa, brother of the president, and Minister Arthur Bliss Lane were official witnesses of the ceremony.

Highest government officials and military diplomatic socialites attended the reception, which was held at the American legation before the wedding. Thence all motored to the presidential mansion for the wedding and dance which took place following the ceremony.

A brilliant moon shone on the palm-fringed roof garden of the mansion, where the couple stood to receive the congratulations of their friends including the entire cabinet, senators and congressmen, the entire diplomatic corps and the United States colony, headed by the foreign minister and consular corps.

The gaiety lasted until early morning when the couple left by plane for Cristobal, where they will spend their honeymoon. From thence they will go to Chile by steamer, where they will make their home.

The bride, who has spent the winter in Nicaragua as the guest of the president and Dona Maria De Sacasa, is well known in this country.

She made her debut at a brilliant ball in Washington, when private trains brought guests to the party from all over the country.

She is actively interesting in philanthropic work and founded the Helen Lee Doherty Milk Fund ball several years ago for the benefit of underprivileged children in Miami.

The groom, who pursued his courtship across the ocean, has large mine interests in Chile, where the couple have many friends.

Contrast is the spice of life and in Miami, one can sojourn in sweet languor or play the energetic sort in the world of sports.

This is true lotus land if you want it to be. And you can have the serenity of a peace time pharaoh if you spend your days lying, scantily swim-suited on a sandy beach with the sun grinning broadly and the breezes playing idle games around you.

Sylvia Clarke of Philadelphia and Marshall V. Moss of Elkins Park, Va., are among the sun worshipers who leave their imprints on the sand beside the Miami Biltmore pool every day.

Two other Pennsylvanians who are changing their colors from lily white to sun tan beside the coral lined Venetian pool are Ruth Hofmann and her mother, Mrs. Adolph Hofman, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Swann of Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. George P. Newell of Washington spend their time on the beach beside the Roney Plaza hotel and watch the ships that dot the horizon on their way to foreign ports.

Mrs. Bruce Edenton and Miss Mary Happle Dancy of Jackson, Tenn., and Miss Patty Young of Bemis, Tenn., play games of chess at a table on the oceanfront board walk of the Roney.

Ed. Sullivan, the prominent New York columnist, Mrs. Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bland of Mayesville, S. C., and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Long of Chicago spend most of every day at their awninged cabanas at the doorstep of the ocean.

Vincent G. Prado of Paris, Mrs. John Bryant of Nashua, N. H., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beard of Chicago, were enthusiastic about their auto-giro ride recently in the Miss Kathryn Fuqua of Washington, D. C., who is the house guest of Mrs. Hugh Laramore, was complimented with a bridge tea Tuesday by Mrs. John Fairbanks in her Coral Gables home. A blue and white color scheme was emphasized throughout the decoration and the flowers were dyed daisies.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Redman of Montclair, N. J., were honor guests at a buffet supper and bridge party Saturday, when Mrs. Graze Perry was hostess at her home on Avenue Navarre.

Mrs. Grant Yetman of Dallas, Texas, Mrs. A. J. McElroy of New York and Mrs. Brock McG. Dear of Bronxville, N. Y., were complimented with a luncheon recently by Mrs. Charles F. Flynn, Country Club prado.

Mrs. William Shepard of Hendersonville, N. C., was complimented with a luncheon Friday when Mrs. John B. McLeod was hostess in her home on N. Greenway drive.

Coming as a surprise to their friends was the marriage of Miss Florence Fleischmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Fleischmann of Glendale, Cal., to Edmund Durham Wright, son of Mrs. A. B. Wright, which took place Friday afternoon. Kenneth R. Close performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Wright attended Temple university in Philadelphia, Pa., and the bridegroom was graduated from the University of Miami and is a member of the Delta Sigma Kappa fraternity. The couple will make their home here.

SPORTS tournaments . . . water carnivals . . . brilliant social functions . . . these are just some of the highlights of the Most Amazing Vacation Ever Conceived, now being indulged by celebrities-on-a-holiday at the Miami Biltmore.

Under the Miami Biltmore's revolutionary plan of guest courtesies, in addition to the expected amenities of luxurious hotel life, you have the entire scope of gay resort activities for your pleasure.

Wherever you want to go in this winter playground, an aerocar will take you, as a Miami Biltmore guest, without extra charge—a service that is a considerable economy, not only in dollars but in hours saved.

When you register at the Miami Biltmore, your name is proposed for guest membership in the exclusive Florida Year-Round Clubs. Upon acceptance, you have the complete facilities of these three magnificent sports clubs to round out your vacation: Miami Biltmore Country Club, for golf, tennis, aquatics, horseback riding; Roney Plaza Cabaña Sun Club, Miami Beach, for surf, pool and sun bathing, seaside sports and jolly social life; Key Largo Anglers Club, on the Florida keys, for the world's best sport-fishing and blissful relaxation in a picturesque paradise.

MEMBERS of the resort colony are still talking about the marvelous gala at Zelli's last Wednesday evening known as "A Night on the Riviera." The entire patio and Great Hall of Zelli's took on the atmosphere of that gay French spa and surprise entertainment added to the gayety and festive spirit of the evening.

Prizes were awarded the best dressed woman in pajama costume and the best dressed man in sports attire.

Ramon and Renita, with the versatile Ross McLean presented an Apache dance and Massard Kur-Zhene and his orchestra were transformed into true Parisian Apaches with all the atmosphere of the Faubourg St. Denis, the Apache quarter of Paris.

An added feature of the event was Robert Rheinhart, Master of Magic, brought from New York for the occasion, who amazed the guests with his remarkable feats of legerdemain, going from table to table. These artists are a nightly feature of Zelli's entertainment and "bon vivant."

Miss Eleanor Talcott delighted those present with her well chosen offering of sophisticated songs and her "Nursery Rhymes," set to music, while Henne Borshar, charming girl violinist and Tony Desimone, wizard of the accordion, were received with enthusiasm.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Gayle Rosson, of The Breakers entertained at dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Parson, Jr., of Baltimore while Mrs. J. Allen Townsend, of New York, dined with friends.

The return of Sheila Barrett to Palm Beach in her inimitable characterization was an outstanding feature in the entertainment field of the resort. Her appearance at the Colony Club was greeted by an ovation seldom encountered in theatrical circles.

At a recent "Gala Carnival" night Mr. Homer Smith and his guests Mrs. John Stafford and Mrs. Orson D. Munn were noted among the throng of merry-makers in the patio, with its marvels of indirect lighting and the festive array of balloons and party appointments which enhance the tropical beauty of this setting.

Another interesting gathering was comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dyer and their dinner guests. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ragland and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Fenn were the other members of the Dyer party.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rabe were hosts to Mrs. Charles Mallers and Mr. Jack Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay of Lake Forest, Ill., had as their guests their neighbors in the beautiful lake shore city Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Haines and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Smith.

The exceptional response which has been accorded the two artists, Mme. Cobina Wright and Mario Braggiotti,—who are in and of society—has resulted in the extension of their engagement at the popular and picturesque Jardin Bijou, and a large number of dinner and supper parties are being planned during the forthcoming week by prominent members of our social colony.

Pooshee-Pooshee continues his awe-inspiring feats of magic and his individual table entertainment of close range card manipulation is in constant demand.

NASSAU

The British Riviera

YOU see it first when your ship approaches the island of New Providence, when the bright Bahaman sun picks out the roofs and spires of old Nassau, the white beaches and the grim forts on the hills beyond. You see it there, just inside the harbour entrance, a great hotel rising from the palms of a garden estate that touches the changing blues and greens of the tropic waters.

This is the British Colonial, center of the smart resort-life that has made Nassau a British Riviera

Overnight from Miami

Florida, or two hours by daily airliner. Direct ships from Halifax, Boston and New York. For literature, hotel reservations, etc., address British Colonial Booking Director, 521 Fifth Avenue (Suite 2421-25), New York, N. Y.

The pleasures of your tropical holiday here include the comforts and Continental cuisine of this famous hotel . . . swimming in pool or surf, golf on a seaside course, yachting (with anchorage and landing at the hotel), tennis, horse racing, polo, deep-sea fishing . . . the varied interests of Nassau, from its gayety of night life to the fun of shopping for London and Paris imports.

TRUST SERVICE IN FLORIDA

To those winter residents who have acquired property in Florida and are considering the advantages which may result from establishing their domicile in Florida, may we suggest consultations with Florida counsel who in turn will find us ever ready to co-operate in all fiduciary matters. There may also be a distinct advantage in now providing for the care and final disposition that is to be made of such property.

The facilities of this institution, designed to assure the efficient management and care of the property of its clients, are backed by years of experience in the administration of trusts involving property located throughout the State of Florida.

Those faced with the care, management, or preservation of property are cordially invited to confer with our executives.

The Ask Mr. Foster Travel Service

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Are you seeking new and unusual places to break your northbound journey? At the Ask Mr. Foster offices we carry literature of many such charming places—a southern Manor House with considerate service by old family servants—an English Inn in an English village right in our own Virginia—a colonial home where a big library intrigues one to linger indefinitely—a southern Inn where the Inn Keeper meets everyone who arrives and personally looks after their comfort—real cattle ranches in the West—and if one is including Jamaica in the winter trip a coconut and cattle ranch to tempt one to a long stay.

We will tell you how to reach these places, supply you with descriptive literature about them, quote you rates, give you cards of introduction and make your reservations. There is no charge for our service and no fees are ever accepted.

"BEAUTY IS NOT A GIFT . . .

IT'S A HABIT"

SAYS

germaine monteil

FAMOUS FRENCH COUTURIER

"No gown in the world—be it fashioned from cloth of gold and hemmed with sables—can make a woman beautiful when age has etched cruel lines into her face. The secret every couturiere knows is this: a truly great gown is designed to call attention—not to itself—but to its wearer. And a great gown is bitter irony when its wearer has lost the clear radiance, the firm contours of youth."

The following women of distinction, acclaim these new beauty products as the perfect answer to their beauty problems.

Countess Therese De Carman Chimay
 Princess de Braganza
 Duchesse de Sangro
 Princess Robert de Broglie
 Princesse Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst
 Isabella Principessa Colonna
 Her Royal and Imperial Highness Archduchess Fanny

Germaine Monteil chooses the following shops in Palm Beach, Miami, and Miami Beach to present her exquisite cosmetiques.

Money and Skill Couldn't Have Built a Better Boat

SEA PHANTOM 48 is the smartest, most up-to-date, most luxuriously appointed craft of its size afloat. 88% streamlined, this remarkable 48-foot cruiser radiates individuality of design and appointments. And, it is the only standardized boat on the market fastened entirely with Monel Metal, which means added strength at a considerable saving in weight and longer hull life.

Accommodations are comparable to those of a much larger yacht. There are so many unusual and exclusive features, that space does not permit complete description here. These unique refinements include Venetian blinds, sliding type non-breakable glass windows, sliding Monel Metal screens, indirect lighting, stocking compartments, soiled clothes receptacles, shoe and hat racks, and blanket compartments. Special Johns-Manville Sea Phantom sound-proofing reduces engine noise to a minimum. Engines mounted on specially constructed Monel Metal wedges reduce vibration and prevent disalignment. Satin-finished corrosion-proof hardware, Monel Metal plumbing, tanks, propellers and shafts. Even china, glassware, silver and linens are supplied marked with owner's flags or monogram.

Arrangement plans and power plants available to meet your own requirements. Interior and exterior color schemes optional. One of several arrangements is illustrated at the right and described below.

OWNER'S STATEROOM

Full sized double bed, dresser, sofa; cedar lined clothes closet—automatically lighted. Twin beds optional.

GUEST STATEROOM

Upper and lower twin beds, dresser and two cedar lined clothes closets—automatically lighted.

GALLEY

Electric refrigerator, Monel Metal sink and table tops. Gas range or oil burning stove with oven, plate warmer and built-in hot water heater. Cooking utensils included.

MAIN CABIN

Large living and dining saloon, beautifully furnished with convertible lounge (makes double bed), three matching chairs, desk and bookcase, combination radio and electric phonograph, built-in folding bar serviced from galley.

CREW'S QUARTERS

Berth, toilet, dresser, clothes locker. Forward cockpit may be substituted for crew's quarters.

BATHROOM

Real tub and basin in color, glass enclosed shower.

LAVATORY

Basin, electric toilet, linen locker.

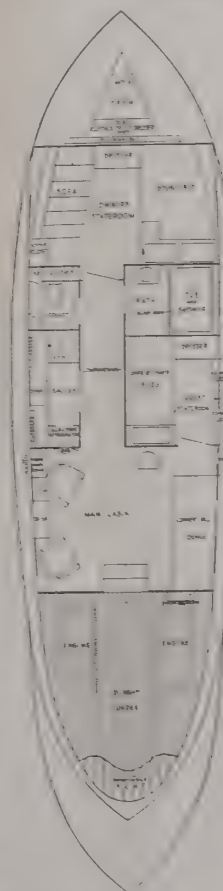

DISAPPEARING DINGHY

Berthed below cockpit hatch is a nine-foot dinghy, quickly raised and launched by special davits.

POWER PLANT

Two 130 h.p. Gray Engines. Speed 18-20 m.p.h. Diesel or larger gasoline engines at additional cost.

Standard equipment includes 110 volt AC generating plant, silent electric turbine-type water pressure system, and built-in Lux fire extinguisher system.

Write today for the complete particulars. If you are wintering in Florida telephone Palm Beach 4006 for appointment to come aboard the Sea Phantom 48 at Palm Beach or at the Royal Palm Yacht Basin, Miami and see for yourself why this deluxe creation excels all other craft within its price range.

HEADSTART to HAPPINESS

YOU know a straight white road where the palms wait to whisper in the breeze of your passing.

You know a pretty girl with laughter-ready lips, and an eagerness to taste the fresh caress of a southern night upon her cheek.

Take your pretty girl, and on that moon-splashed road let the Roadmaster tell its own quiet-voiced story of power and steadiness and even-keeled comfort.

Feel the surge of its take-off, the smoothness of its swing into speed. Sample the swerveless firmness of its tiptoe hydraulics, its instant responsiveness to your hands on the wheel. Test the perfect balance of it, unspoiled by jerk, shiver, strain or rubbery jumpiness—and find a motoring thrill that needs no touch of hazard to give it spice.

Up North the winds are howling and the roads are glazed with ice. You have Florida nights, Florida roads, a headstart to the happiness that could be yours in a Roadmaster.

THE SPANISH Fiesta was held Saturday evening in the Marine Grill of the British Colonial under the distinguished patronage of the Hon. Lady Clifford, for the benefit of the Bahamas Welfare Association of which she is president, was a huge success.

In the party of the Hon. Sir Bede Clifford, K. C. M. G. Governor of the Bahamas and Lady Clifford, were Mr. and Mrs. John Murton Gundry, Jr. of Cleveland Ohio, the Hon. Percy Thellusson, Count Woronzow-Daschkow, Baron Bauefrelund, and Mr. and Mrs. John Dewar of London, who are passing a fortnight at the British Colonial.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindley M. Hoffman and Arthur Hoffman of New York City, accompanied by Miss Ethel Gioletti, B. Frank Davis and George Summers, all of New York, are passing several days at the British Colonial. Others there are, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. P. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd P. Stryker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swafford, all of New York.

Miss Janet M. Beach of New York, has taken an apartment in town for the remainder of the season. Joseph W. Dorland and A. C. Turner of New York, have also taken an apartment as has Frank F. Rowen of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Crowell of Tuckahoe, N. Y. who are passing a fortnight here, left Saturday morning on a deep-sea fishing trip to the "Out Islands." Mr. Crowell hopes to beat his wife's record of last season when she caught the largest Dolphin of the season at Miami (39½ pounds.)

Mrs. H. A. Davies of Detroit and Bruce Baird of Washington, D. C., were North and South winners of the silver trophies in the weekly Duplicate Contract Bridge Tournament at the British Colonial. Miss Eleanor Beitler of Overbrook, Pa., and Miss Helene von Goernig of Radnor, Pa., were East and West winners.

The two-masted schooner "Folly" chartered by Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Hildreth Meigs of Boston, which is anchored at the British Colonial quay, will sail soon on a trip to the Berry Islands, Bimini and Palm Beach.

Mrs. Frank L. Sewell and daughter, Miss Nancy Sewall, of New York City, have arrived at the British Colonial for a fortnight's winter holiday.

Mrs. Louis R. Wasey of New York City is spending a few days there, accompanied by Mrs. Domenice Mortellito, of New York, Miss Elizabeth Thibaut of Greenwich, Conn., and Mrs. Jebba D. Moorhouse of London, who will be her house-guests at her winter home on Cat Cay.

Roy R. Manbert of Oakville, Ontario, gave a farewell party in the Marine Grill of the British Colonial. He has chartered a Pan-American clipper to take his guests to Havana. They are Miss Ruth Johnson of Glen Cove, L. I., Miss June Webster of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dorfman and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bunting and Miss Joyce Livingstone, of Toronto.

Woolworth Donahue of New York, who is on a deep-sea fishing trip at Bimini, is expected to visit friends here before returning to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, who arrived today by sea-plane, have chartered the "Sea Owl," 100-foot Diesel yacht of Harold Whitmore of the Columbia Yacht Club, New York and Palm Beach, for a month's cruise of the "Out Islands."

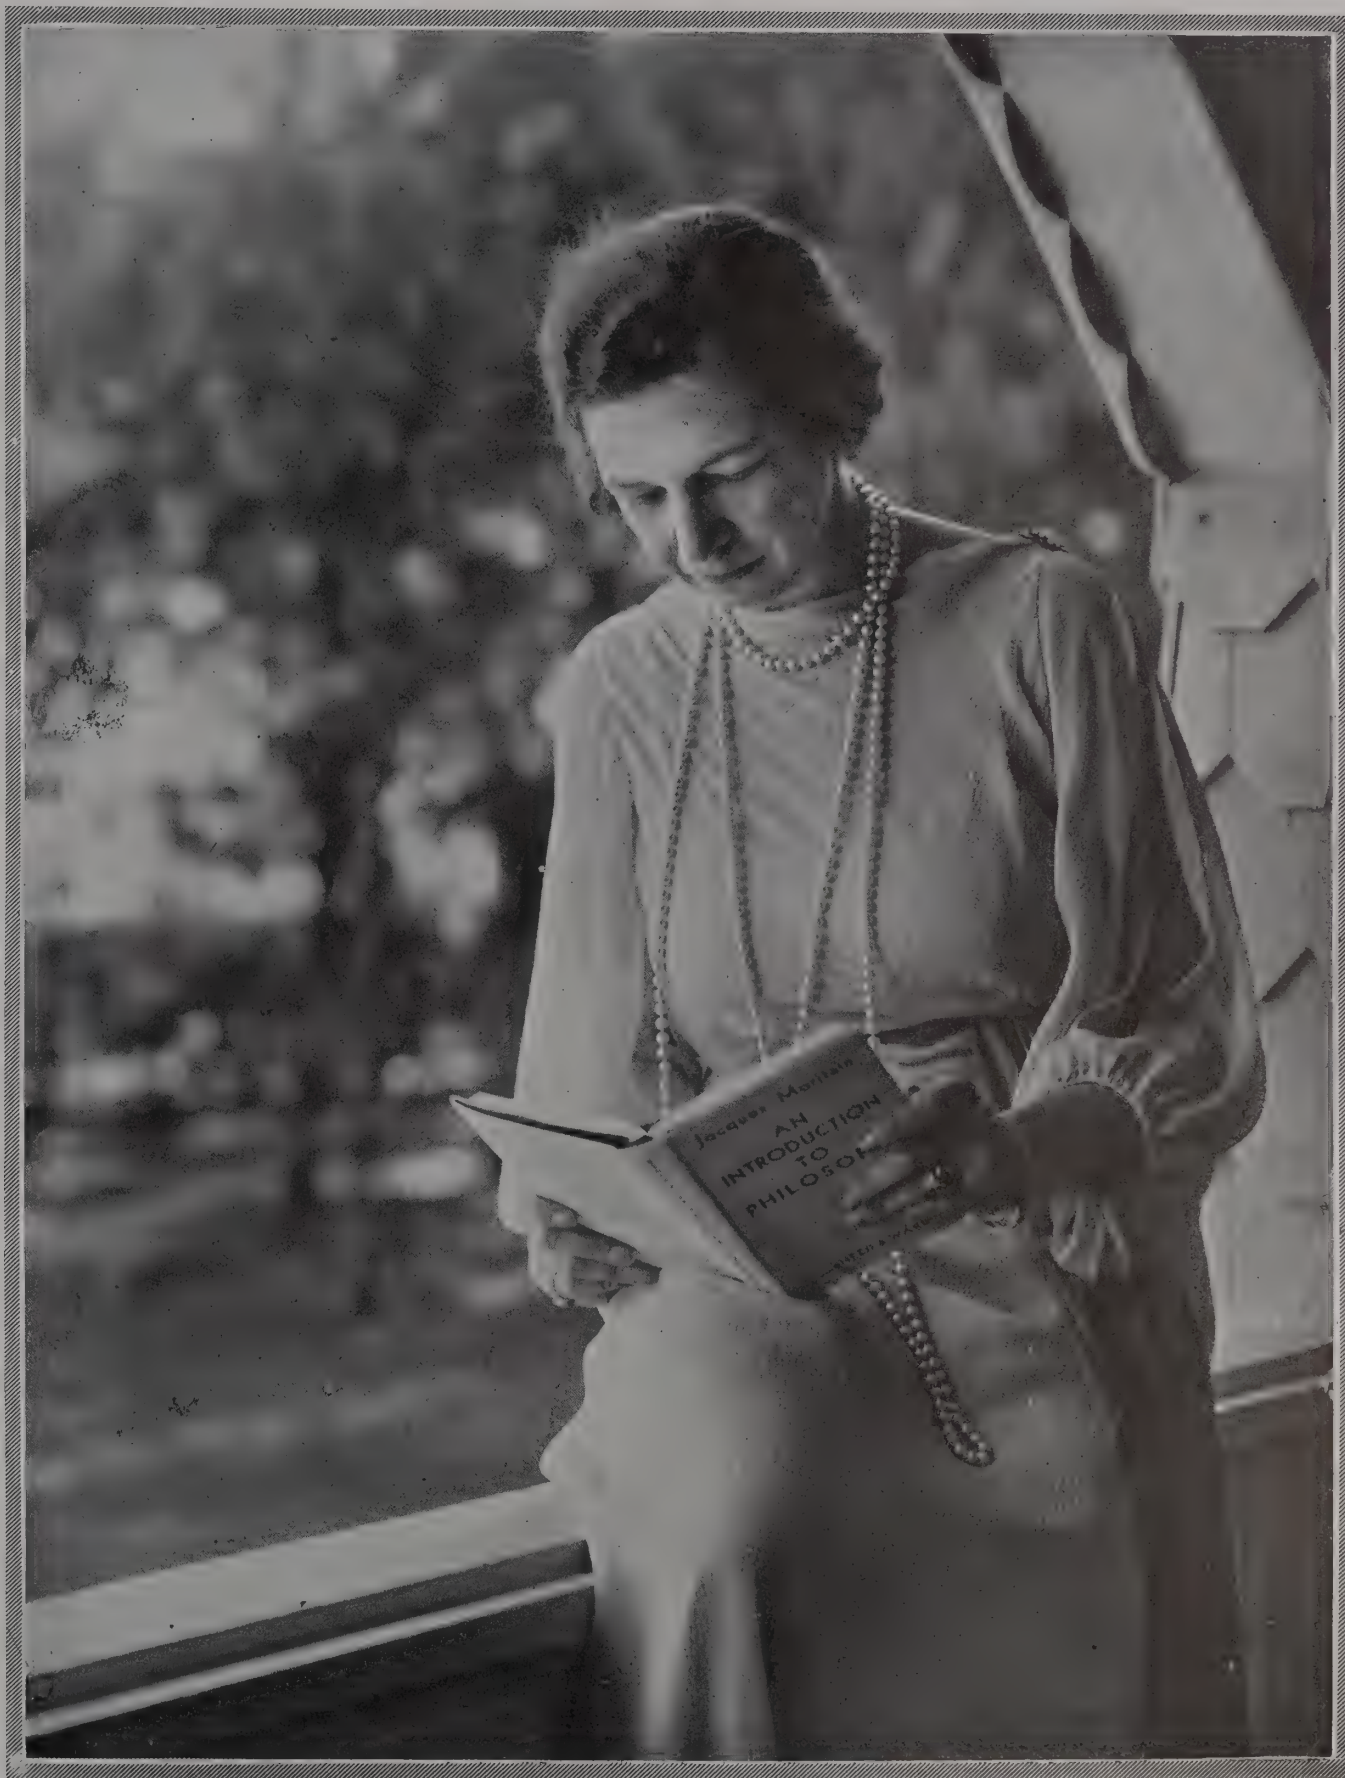

"Bamboo" the 46-foot fishing cruiser of Captain Edward LeMay of Miami, Fla., has arrived from Bimini and docked at the British Colonial quay to await the arrival of the 64-foot staysail ketch "Winsome Too" of Harkness Edwards of the New York Yacht Club, one of the participants in the Miami-to-Nassau Yacht Race.

"Maria Dolores," 110-foot Diesel yacht of Clifford Mooers of the Biscayne Bay Yacht Club, Miami, and Corpus Christi, Texas, is anchored at the British Colonial quay. On board are Mr. and Mrs. Mooers, Miss Maria Dolores Mooers, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Hopkins. Since her last visit here two months ago, the "Maria Dolores" has made a cruise around the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean, Galveston and Houston, Texas, Havana and Cienfuegos, Cuba; Kingston, Jamaica, Santo Domingo and Cape Haitien.

Mr. Sam Harris, noted theatrical producer, occupies one of the new Monterey type houses that are fast coming into popularity in the resort. The house which is a striking addition to the cottage colony is located in Palmo Way near the Inlet.

An exotic combination of intricate patterns in mosaic and sparkling appointments mark the cocktail room of the Everglades Club. In the late afternoon many of the guests find the dazzling colors of the tiled wall and bar an ideal background for watching the setting sun.

At Right—A choice bit of Palm Beach landscape gardening, with its vista of cleverly diversified shrubs, flowers and vivid green lawn is glimpsed in this corner of the lovely grounds of the Everglades Club.

Below—An atmosphere of dignity and charm is found in the spacious lounge of the Everglades Club. The beautiful room is always flooded with light, opening as it does on the east to the Oriental splendor of the Moorish and on the west to the loveliness of the orange gardens.

All the splendour of a Spanish baronial castle is found in the high vaulted dining-room of the Everglades Club. A fortune in murals grace the north and west walls, with the century worn wood panels underneath and the enormous cypress beams overhead forming a perfect frame for their artistry.

Below—One of the lovely lounges in the Everglades Club directly across the courtyard from the main loggia. Grace and an exquisite sense of proportion are the outstanding characteristics noted in this tastefully decorated room.

AMONG THE PALMS

LATE March finds an increasing number of visitors who chose incomparable Palm Beach with its very swank and luxurious hotels for their winter vacations which are made doubly enjoyable by only faint recollections of the cold days in the north.

All through the height of the season the great Breakers hotel has been filled with national and international notables and until the end of the season it will remain a center of pleasant social life and unharrassed diversion for a large number of visitors. The hotel will close officially on April 5, and will remain open on the modified service plan until April 18.

Among prominent social registerites who have arrived recently at the Breakers are Mrs. Roger W. Kalt, and Mrs. Kalt Treadway, Jr., and Mr. Roger Kalt, of New York, who are here for their annual sojourn. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bristow, of New York, have also joined the large New York contingent. Mrs. Harold Baring, of London, who is touring the United States, is a guest at the Breakers enroute to Mexico City and California.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander C. Neave, of New Canaan, Conn., and Mr. Elbridge Stratton, of New York, who are spending the season at the Mont Lake Club, were recent guests at the Breakers, having come to attend a luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Reynolds at the Seminole Club.

Dr. and Mrs. George Michell, of Chicago, have returned to the Breakers for a several weeks' stay after an absence of several years. Dr. and Mrs. John A. Koch, of Quincy, Ill., where Dr. Koch is a prominent physician and surgeon, are guests at the Breakers, enroute to Miami and St. Petersburg.

One of the most delightful parties at the hotel recently was the luncheon at which Mr. and Mrs. William A. Snyder, of Chicago, who are season guests at the Breakers, entertained in the north lounge for sixty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Logan, of Chicago, also season guests at the Breakers, were hosts at a large cocktail party honoring one hundred and fifty prominent residents of the colony. Miss Loraine Logan, who is attending Smith college, will arrive tomorrow to spend the spring vacation with her parents.

Mrs. Ledyard Cogswell, of New York, who is spending the season at the Breakers entertained thirty guests recently at dinner in the North Lounge complimenting Prince and Princess Vladimir Koudacheff, of New York, who are the guests of Mr. Walter Cluett on the North Lake Trail.

Mr. Arthur G. Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Hoffman have returned to the Breakers following a short stay at Nassau, where they were guests at the British Colonial.

Every day brings late season guests to the resort, many of whom choose the Hotel Seaglades as the ideal spot to pass a quiet spring vacation.

Arriving recently at the hotel was Mrs. James R. Mann of Washington, D. C., prominent in government social circles there, and an annual visitor at Heaton Hall in Stockbridge, Mass., the summer hotel operated by Mr. William G. Havill. In the weekly card party held in the ocean lounge of the hotel on Thursday evening, prizes for high score were won by Miss Marian Freeman, Mr. Wesley Howser, Miss Ethel Farmer, Miss Lillian Clarke, Mrs. Thomas B. Sutton, Mrs. Olive Latham, Mr. Alexander Chandler, Mrs. H. A. Wood, Mrs. George Weeks Hale, Dr. E. H. Taylor, Mrs. Maude Vander Voort and Mrs. Cora Parks.

The Palm Beach Hotel, under the management of Mr. James J. Farrell of The Monmouth at Spring Lake Beach, N. J., will conclude the season with one of the most successful records in its history. This charming hotel, which is of typically designed Spanish architecture, with overhanging balconies, beautiful palm-lined patios, open lobby and picturesque nooks, is a most popular resort gathering place.

Many prominent arrivals join the already distinguished registry list daily at the Palm Beach Hotel. Recently Mr. M. B. Hopkins of New York engaged a suite while visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Randolph Hopkins.

Other newcomers are Mr. Millard Tompkins, Jr., of Scarsdale, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Edward FitzGerald, Dr. Hecht Cypihot and Dr. Ars. Ecrement of Montreal, Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Ordway of Concord, N. H., Mr. W. Randolph Hahn, Rev. Patrick J. Lannon, Mrs. Augusta M. Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. John Starbuck, Miss Anne Starbuck and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Himsworth of New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Reck of New York city have arrived for a visit. They came from St. Augustine, where they have been making a lengthy stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Parker, Jr., of Washington, D. C., are at the hotel, also Miss Marie Suter of New Canaan, Conn., with Miss Emily Ringling of Park Avenue, New York city.

The Brazilian Court Hotel has included among its guests this season important members of the diplomatic set. Foremost among these are Mrs. Philip Owen Coffin and her sister, Madame Giuseppe Brambilla, who with Mrs. Coffin's daughter, Miss Virginia C. Rodgers, have arrived from Washington to pass several weeks here. Both Mrs. Coffin and Madame Brambilla have been popular in diplomatic circles in this country and abroad since girlhood. Their father, the late George von Lengerke Meyer, was a distinguished figure of pre-World War days. He served as ambassador-extraordinary to Italy from 1900 to 1905 and to Russia from 1905 to 1907 and was Postmaster-General in the cabinet of President Theodore Roosevelt and was chosen by President Taft to be Secretary of the Navy. Brazilian Court guests include many socialites from the fashionable Hamptons, where Mr. Elliott F. Bishop is managing-owner of the two leading summer hotels—Seven Ponds Inn at Southampton and Hampton Inn at Westhampton. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald de Courcy May, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Cammann, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stafford, Mr. William de Rham and Mr. Steuart Davis are only a few of the Southampton colony who pass the season at the Brazilian Court.

NOBILITY VISITS IN RESORT

NEVER before in all the glamorous history of the resort has the list of nobility visiting in Palm Beach included such a brilliant assemblage as it has this season. Long a favorite winter retreat for smart members of European society, this tropical island has attracted habitués of many of the continental watering places until the roster of the foreign colony here reads like a page torn at random from the Almanac de Gotha.

Heading the list of distinguished visitors are the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, who are passing the second season with the Duke's mother, Mme. Louis Jacques Balsan, and Col. Balsan, at their estate on Hypoluxo Island, where a series of smart parties have been given in their honor. The Marlboroughs were accompanied to Palm Beach by their daughter and son, Lady Sarah Spencer Churchill and John George Vanderbilt Henry, Earl of Sunderland and Marquess of Blandford, and by the Hon. Lionel Montague, son of the first Baron Swaythling and an uncle of the present Baron Swaythling of Southampton.

Joining the Balsan house party at Hypoluxo were Lord and Lady Stavordale of Holland House near Kensington, London.

Perhaps the most feted of the titled group visiting in Palm Beach are Prince and Princess Otto von Bismarck and his brother, Count Albrecht von Bismarck, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Williams at their villa.

At Amado, the ocean-front villa of Mr. Charles A. Munn, can always be found a group of distinguished foreigners. Among the most attractive of these this season have been the Duchess of Sutherland and the Countess of Abingdon. The Duchess of Sutherland, the former Lady Eileen Gladys Butler, eldest daughter of the seventh Earl of Lanesborough, and mistress of the robes to Queen Mary of England from 1916 to 1921. The Duke of Sutherland visited at El Palmetto, the Joseph E. Widener estate, two seasons ago in company with the Earl of Athlone, Queen Mary's brother, and his wife, Princess Alice, own cousin of the late King George.

Viscount Forbes, son of the Earl and Countess of Granard and nephew of Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps and Ogden Mills, is a guest at Heamaw.

Popular among members of the young married set in the resort were Lord and Lady Charles Cavendish, who visited at Villa Marina as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sanford.

Another English visitor was the Earl of Carnarvon, who occupied a bachelor apartment earlier in the season, went to Kingstree, S. C., for a week's shooting with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer, flew to California and returned to Palm Beach to visit the Hon. Mrs. Frederick E. Guest at Villa Artemis.

Prince and Princess Chlodwig Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst, visitors to Palm Beach for several years, joined the cottage colony this season.

Among the host of other titled persons visiting in the resort this season are the Countess Eleanora Colloredo-Mannsfeld, who was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor at the villa in Banyan Road which they occupied for several weeks this season. The Countess di Zoppola, an annual visitor here, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jay O'Brien at Villa del Sarmiento, where she was entertained at several smart parties. At La Colmena, Comte Rene de Rougemont and Viscount Roger de Holgoiut were members of the Jules Bache' party and were later joined by the Countess Elie de Ganay, who visited first at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice. Prince Kyril Scherbatoff is a member of the Makaroff houseparty at Louwana.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beaver Strassburger was Viscount du Pontavice de Heussey of Paris, and Count Oliver Russey de Sales was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sears, Jr. Joining Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick's party at Villa Today, was Comte Serge Fleury. Included among guests at the Breakers were Countess Yvonne Saint-Cyr, Princess Roxanne C. Soutzo, Princess Callimachi and Count Walewski. At Whitehall, the Duchess de Chaulnes, Countess Jeanne de Salverte, and Comte Guy du Bourg de Bozas, Princess Cantacuzine. Prince and Princess Vladimir Koudacheff are the guests of Mr. Walter Cluett. Others who are regular winter residents include Prince and Princess Serge Mdivani (Louise Van Alen), whose marriage was a brilliant social event of February 8th. Count and Countess Francesco Guardabassi of Clarke Avenue. Prince and Princess Odescalchi, Prince Mikhail Goundoroff, Count de Castagnola and Count and Countess Carlos Filipponi.

VISITING CELEBRITIES

PALM BEACH is the favorite winter resort of many of the nation's celebrities, from the theater, screen and radio, representatives of the arts and letters and moguls from the political world and sports.

Charles Francis Coe, writer of robust stories and president of the Palm Beach Sailfish Club, is one of the first celebrities to arrive and the last to leave.

The well known columnist, O. O. McIntyre, and Mrs. McIntyre, often come to Palm Beach and pass several weeks at the Breakers last year.

John Charles Thomas, famous baritone, and Mrs. Thomas visit the resort every winter and enjoy cruising about on their yacht "Masquerader."

Palm Beach's own opera star, Doris Doe, daughter of Mrs. John Watson Doe and the late Dr. Doe, who have been Palm Beach residents for years, manages to sandwich in a flying trip to the resort at some time during the winter.

Fred Herendeen, author of several Broadway successes including "All the Kings Horses" and "The Royal Exchange," is a frequent visitor, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Herendeen, who maintain a winter home on Clarke Avenue.

Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, and Mrs. Tunney, have been visitors here for many years and have recently built a home at Hobe Sound.

Peter Arno, celebrated cartoonist, also takes time off for a visit to Palm Beach every year, as do Erskine Gwynne and Cecil Beaton, internationally known artist and writer of London, who is an exponent of the ultra-modern in art.

Colorful figures from the theatre and radio include Sam Harris, New York theatrical producer, who has brought so much glamour and entertainment to Broadway.

Mr. Arthur Hammerstein, another well known producer, spends his winters here with his family, and is largely responsible for making the Annual Kiwanis Benefit the success it always is.

George Gershwin, noted composer, is another well known figure in Palm Beach. George Jessel, comedian and famed after dinner speaker, and Mrs. Jessel (Norma Talmadge), are Palm Beachites who completed their lovely home on the lake front last season. Sophie Tucker, vaudeville star and night club entertainer, makes it a point to visit Palm Beach every winter, if only for a short time.

Another celebrated entertainer who spent several days here last season was Lucienne Boyer, French songstress.

Jessica Dragonette, the golden voiced, golden girl of radio, visited Palm Beach for the first time last season and enjoyed a much needed month's vacation.

Another star of the air waves who has signified his regard for Palm Beach by buying a home here is Phil Baker, radio comedian and master of the accordian. Mr. Baker spends as much time with his family here during the winter as contracts will permit.

Mr. Lou Holtz, nationally known radio and stage star, has appeared here as master of ceremonies for three Kiwanis Benefit performances.

Representing the political world we have Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York and Democratic Presidential candidate in 1928. His time here is spent bathing in the surf or playing golf. For the past two seasons the Smiths have been guests of the William F. Kennys.

Governor James M. Curley of Massachusetts is also a regular Palm Beach visitor, accompanied by political associates and Massachusetts state troopers in sky blue uniforms. Governor Curley, who stays at Whitehall, enjoys his golf and has been known to make and win some curious wagers on the resort's courses. Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York, with his family, were Palm Beach residents last winter, taking a house on Clarke Avenue.

Grover Whalen, former Police Commissioner of New York and Mrs. Whalen comes to the resort for his winter vacation and is a member of the Bath and Tennis Club.

The first week of February each year brings an influx of members of the Artists and Writers group to Palm Beach, ostensibly to play in their annual Golf Tournament. Some of them do take their golf seriously, but the majority welcome it as a pretext to bask in the sunshine on the various beaches of the resort and to make merry in the gay night spots. Their membership is a large and colorful one, including James Montgomery Flagg and McClelland Barclay, internationally known artists; Frank Crowninshield, editor of Vanity Fair; Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, who wrote the music for the Ziegfeld Follies for twenty years; Arthur William Brown, Bradshaw Crandall, John LaGatta and C. D. Williams, all famous magazine illustrators. Also George Abbott, theatrical producer, John Golden, playwright; Grantland Rice, famous sports authority and writer; Otto Soglow, artist and creator of "The Little King"; Clarence Buddington Kelland, well known author; Merle Thorpe, editor and journalist; Ham Fisher, Rube Goldberg and Jefferson Machamer, cartoonists; LeRoy P. Ward, famous architect; Gladys Parker, originator of "Flapper Fanny," and a host of others equally well known.

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS

Internationally famous baritone in spite of his many concert and opera engagements finds time to visit the resort each season with Mrs. Thomas on board his yacht, "The Masquerader."

IN THE REALM OF MANSION AND HACIENDA

SPARKLING activity has marked the social life of the cottage colony since mid-season, with house-parties vying with the pretentious gatherings noted in the smart entertainment spots. The ingenious Palm Beach host of today presents entertainment on a par with the display of talent encountered at the best of the theatres.

The dull house-party no longer exists in Palm Beach circles where everything from the latest movies to imported theatrical talent greets the guest. While very nearly all of the house-parties end up in a trip to one or more of the smart night-clubs, the guest's appetite for amusement has been whetted by what amounts to a preview of the attractions afterwards seen at the leading gathering spots for the Palm Beach socialites.

In their beautifully landscaped patios and built in theatres, the hosts of today's Palm Beach gatherings contrive to formulate a program of entertainment and amusement which would do credit to the leading theatrical impressarios. Polo parties, birthday gatherings, celebrations in honor of visiting royalty and any and all of the motives for giving parties find the unique and entertaining in after-dinner amusements prevalent in the colony.

The inevitable sortie to the island's smart night clubs after the scintillating program of entertainment testifies to the wide-awake enjoyment which the guest of the current house-parties has experienced in the comfortably arranged private theatre of his host or the patio with its theatrical entertainment under the skies. Instead of the bored trek homeward so in evidence among the party-goers in the past the dinner guest of the modern host leaves the house-party refreshed and ready for a round of the bright spots of the Palm Beach night colony.

House-guests today are apt to find themselves viewing foreign sights and sounds from the interior of a fast aeroplane. One of the colony's outstanding pair of hosts only recently returned from an extended tour of Mexico by air with their house-guests.

At one of the season's outstanding social gatherings Mr. Charles A. Munn entertained in honor of his daughter, Miss Mary Munn's birthday at a buffet supper at Amado. The supper was served at small tables arranged in the picturesque patio, after which his guests viewed the feature picture, "A Million Dollars a Minute" in the private theatre of the estate. A colored cartoon of "Sinbad the Sailor" was an added attraction and musical entertainment was furnished by an ivory toothed aggregation of colored musicians.

Guests at the novel buffet supper were Lord and Lady Stavordale, Prince and Princess Chlodwig Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst, Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Jay J. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Holmsen, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Baragwanath, the Duchess of Sutherland, the Countess of Abington, Countess di Zoppola, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Ian Wallace, Mrs. Vadim Stefan Makaroff, Mrs. Joseph Washington Frazier, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. Allan A. Ryan, Jr., Mrs. Richard Hoyt, Mrs. George Atwell, Jr., Mrs. F. Burrell Hoffman, Miss Frances Munn, Miss Beatrice W. Patterson, Miss Chico Kilvert, the Duke of Marlborough, Prince Kyril Scherbatoff, Sir Robert Throckmorton, Mr. Gurnee Munn, Mr. Lytle Hull, Mr. James A. Burden, Mr. William Rhinelander Stewart, Mr. Duncan Spencer, Mr. Charles A. Munn, Jr., Mr. Rodman de Heeren, Mr. W. Spottswood White, Mr. David Brooks and Mr. Pierre L. Barbey, Jr.

Polo stole the spotlight in the Palm Beach colony when "Casa Josieta," the lovely estate of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Hasler on the South Ocean Boulevard, was the scene of one of the smart parties of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Hasler entertained at a large dinner dance for members of the polo contingent and other prominent residents of the resort colony.

Palm Beach home and their Old Westbury home on Long Island is the setting for a similar annual dinner for the polo notables and the smart set during the summer.

The Haslers are also polo enthusiasts of the first water, Mr. Hasler being no mean mallet swinger in the games in which he plays both here and in Westbury.

Dinner was served in the patio amid the whispering palms which decorate this lovely courtyard. One of Palm Beach's leading orchestras furnished music for the after dinner dance program, which found the guests lingering until the small hours of the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Hasler's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jay O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. George Atwell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John S. Pillsbury, Prince and Princess Serge Mdivani, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Ruckelshaus, Mr. and Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Brokaw,

SPORTS IN REVIEW

IN SPITE of torrential showers which threatened disaster for one of the most outstanding tennis tournaments ever held in Palm Beach, fate was kind enough to cause sufficient lulls in the downpour to allow the finals in all divisions of the Everglades Club Annual Invitational Tennis Tournament, to be carried to completion.

Playing true to form, Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, diminutive Atlanta net star and top seeded favorite, defeated Charles R. Harris, defending champion and seeded No. 2 player in the finals of the men's singles division of the tourney in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Playing on a rain-sodden court, put in shape through the herculean efforts of the Tennis Committee, and during a lull in the fitful showers which persisted through the day, "Bitsy" Grant and Charles Harris put on an outstanding match, remarkable for the steadiness of play by both contestants and featured by the fact that it was the first time Grant and Harris had ever faced each other in singles finals play.

The slow condition of the court favored Grant's drop shots which were placed with deadly accuracy and piled up point after point. Although Harris won the early games in each set, Grant staged a comeback in each instance to overcome the lead and forge ahead, by virtue of superior court work.

In the men's doubles play, Harris and Grant defeated the team of Martin Buxby and George Andrade, of Miami, in a three-set match, 6-2, 8-6, 6-0, after finishing a final set of the semi-finals against Mel Tarpley, of Miami, and Weston Painter, of Minneapolis, which they won 6-1, 6-0.

Buxby played the outstanding game of the match, his work at the net being accurate and fascinating to watch, and bearing out the contention that he is one of the best doubles players in the country today. Andrade was bothered by the frequent gusts of rain which blurred his glasses, making his vision anything but perfect. Harris and Grant teamed together remarkably well, although they were outclassed in the second set of the match, which they lost 6-8, after having Buxby and Andrade 5-1.

Mrs. Ralph Marlowe, Honolulu, winner of the women's singles title, teamed with Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, to win the mixed doubles finals, defeating Mrs. Robert H. Hasler, Westbury, L. I., and Gardner Mulloy, of Miami, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2.

An interested gallery of tennis enthusiasts braved the showery weather to watch the finals of one of the most outstanding tennis tournaments ever brought to Palm Beach and which is expected to set the pace for many more of equal caliber.

Much credit for such a fine tournament is due to Mr. Alfred G. Kay, chairman of the Tennis Committee; Mr. D. Dulaney Hunter, social secretary, and to Mr. Ellis W. Klingeman, club professional, as well as to all those who took part in play.

"Bitsy" Grant defeated his fellow-townsmen, William B. Reese, unseeded Georgia State Junior Champion, in a hard-fought four-set battle in the semi-finals with Reese taking the first set, 6-4, but Grant finding his court game in time to win the next three sets, 6-2, 8-6, 6-1.

Charles Harris eliminated Martin Buxby, Miami, seeded No. 4, in straight sets in the semi-finals, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1. Buxby, a master of the drop shot, failed to gain any great advantage on that score, for Harris, coming in with lightning speed, nearly always managed a return, and followed it up with a perfect overhead smash.

Mrs. Ralph Marlowe of Honolulu and Lakeland, Fla., won the women's singles title when she defeated Mrs. James Breese of Sante Fe, N. M., in straight sets, 6-3, 8-6. Both feminine stars were unseeded but advanced through formidable competition to gain the final round.

B. S. Cunningham, youthful shotmaker from Green Farms, Conn., spoiled the tournament record of the defending champion, Tommy Goodwin, New York and Palm Beach golfer, in the finals of the Men's Championship of Palm Beach winning the event by the tally of 2 and 1 over the 36-hole route.

They were all square at the end of the 18-hole morning round, Cunningham making a 76 to Goodwin's 77. On the out-nine of the afternoon they played a see-saw round, remaining even at the turn. They halved the next four holes in steady playing, but on the 14th Cunningham made a birdie three to take the hole. He lost the 15th when he got into trouble with his putter to take a six, but won the 16th with a par three and the short 17th with another par three to take the match.

Cunningham took the lead in the early holes of the morning round, making the turn 3 up on the defending champion. He raised the tally to 4 up, taking the tenth, but Goodwin stiffened in his work on the green to win the eleventh, thirteenth and fourteenth holes. He dropped the sixteenth, but took a par three on the seventeenth and a birdie three on the eighteenth to go to lunch all square.

John Barry Ryan, New York, defeated Fred McIntosh, Spencer, W. Va., 3 and 2, in the finals of the second flight of the tournament. In the consolation division of the first sixteen L. R. Sikes defeated W. B. Langford, 5 and 4.

Goodwin was forced to the 20th green in the semi-finals to defeat Fred Hannon, Quincy, Mass., long driving golfer by the slim tally of 1 up over the Country Club course.

One up going to the eighteenth, Hannon's approach was short and he three putted the green to square the match to force it to extra holes. They halved the nineteenth with fives, but on the twentieth green, Hannon missed a three-footer to take a five, while Goodwin dropped a beautiful long putt for a par three to take the match.

Hannon played the steadier golf throughout the round, making a 36 on the out-nine to put him 1 up on the youthful shotmaker who tallied a 39. Hannon took the tenth with a par four, but drove two out of bounds on the eleventh, Goodwin's second shot skimming the surface of the water hazard and landing safely on the other side, another long putt giving him a birdie four to Hannon's six. Superior work on the green gave Goodwin a par three on the short twelfth.

The Palm Beach Golf Club team annexed the championship of the Palm Beach Golf League by virtue of winning the highest number of points in team play through the season, totaling 109 won and 71 lost, to garner the top position by a slim three-point lead over the Palm Beach Country Club.

These weekly matches formed a high point of friendly golf competition between members of the four resort clubs, including the two clubs previously mentioned, the Old Guard Society of Palm Beach Golfers and the Everglades Club.

Complete standing of the four club teams was as follows: Palm Beach Golf Club, 109 points won and 71 points lost; Palm Beach Country Club, 106 won and 74 lost; Old Guard Society of Palm Beach Golfers, 84 won and 96 lost; Everglades Club, 61 won and 119 lost.

At the annual meeting of the Golf League, Roger Bacon, member of the Old Guard, was elected president, John E. McAuliffe, vice-president, and E. Thompson Starr, secretary and treasurer.

Through the winning the championship, the Palm Beach Golf Club team will fly the pennant for the ensuing year, the Old Guard having had that honor as champions the past year.

Those representing the various clubs in play were as follows: Golf Club—Messrs. J. E. McAuliffe, captain, Allan K. Wylie, Hugh L. Willoughby, 3rd, C. W. Kittleman, George S. Silsbee, H. S. Moody, Jr., Jack McCarthy, Joseph Schenck.

Country Club—Leonard Beard, captain, B. S. Cunningham, Edward V. Quinn, Tommy Goodwin, Arthur Brown, William E. Dennison.

Old Guard Society—H. L. Willoughby, Jr., captain, William B. Langford, Roger Bacon, Blaine Zuver, E. G. Lauder, Jr., James H. Howard.

Everglades Club—Clinton S. Dow, captain, George S. Rasmussen, G. Horton Glover, Elmer Rich, Col. W. H. Carpenter, G. K. Morgan.

TOWN AND TRAVEL MODES

ALTHOUGH few Palm Beachites are giving a thought to leaving for northern homes with the accompanying nippy March winds, sleet and slush, fashion minded women are thinking about what the smart shops suggest for the new spring wardrobe.

Suggestions at this moment (and they're good ones, believe me) confine themselves largely to grey and navy, with two-tone prints important for wear under the plain wool coat. You'll see lots of width and height at the shoulders, and a great deal of fullness in the sleeves, and the fresh, inevitable touches of white on dark frocks and suits, but starched. The masculine trend is noted everywhere, sometimes ingeniously combined with the ultra-feminine to achieve a wholly delightful and refreshing effect.

Bonwit tellers on Worth Avenue present for tailored correctness, the Duke of Gloucester suit. In double-breasted style, the fabric is of gray mens-wear flannel with mannish stitched collar and lapels. The jacket will do double duty any old time with a contrasting skirt and this smart shop suggests accessories of navy, saffron, geranium red, or Parma violet. They're also making a raglan sleeve top coat to wear with it, that strikes the perfect note for travel through the skies or over sea.

If you're one of those fortunate persons planning a stop-over at Aiken, you should see the sky blue ensemble of imported wool. A silk overblouse of a matching shade may be alternated with extra blouses for variety. The coat deserves a place in the upper brackets because of its restrained swagger and its tuxedo roll collar of blue fox. They also have a stunning grey combined with bright green. The coat has sleeves softly pleated to the shoulders and a distinctive flare to the back. The "district pockets" so definitely English convince you that it will be the correct choice for spring.

Lingerie touches are always important for spring. A frock of fashionable black and white crinkled sheer at Turners, Gowns, on Worth Avenue, has narrow pleats in the front of the skirt, and collar and vestee effect of white hand crochet and starched linen. The wide belt is patent leather, and the black wool redingote will welcome service with any number of frocks.

Navy sheers that spell success in any clime for spring, include a frock at this same shop with waist coat effect piped in white. The jacket has an inverted pleat in back and mannish lapels edged in the same piping that accents every detail. The polka dotted scarf may be exchanged for brighter colors when you're in a special gala mood.

If you must leave soon and yet refuse to relinquish your play-time spirit—get the sheer wool ensemble of Indian Pink to wear under your fur coat. Jay Thorpe has it. The frock is laced high up the front with self tone lacing, and the skirt has a stitched inverted pleat. The beautifully cut jacket has those comfortable sleeves that stop just below the elbow. Jay Thorpes also show a number of conservative prints for town wear—combined with unlined woolen coats. A model of black with small bright flowers, has narrow pleating in the skirt and a smart scarf collar edged in a pleated frill. The plain black coat is faced and collared and cuffed in the print.

The rustle of taffeta will be heard in any number of smart places this spring. Helen Heller shows it in navy and white polka dot bodice finished high at the neck with a saucy bow, and combined with a sheer wool skirt of navy. The short matching jacket is laced around the edges with the taffeta—even unto the English side vents.

In another navy suit here, the skirt is high waisted and arched slightly in front by means of trapunta work. A tuck-in blouse of sheer white linen is elaborately trimmed with old fashioned petticoat embroidery used in an entirely new fashioned way with chin frills. The belted jacket of wool carries out the trapunta detail in the pockets.

Smart Cruise modes are never hard to find at Madame Najla Mogabgab's Breakers Salon. Among the many distinctive ensembles noted there is one of rough English tweed, with straight skirt topped by a blouse of saffron yellow jersey, effectively tucked and boasting a scarf collar. A cape of tweed with tucked yoke and concealed slots in the sides, completes this very attractive ensemble.

Printed silk makes a name for itself when it's a Bianchini design in huge white daisies on black, daubed here and there with Royal blue. This sophisticated frock presented by Madame, is slashed at the back and the sleeves for added versatility, and the fulled bodice is caught with a novel clip. A black wool redingote, lined that's sure to be worth its weight in gold, accompanies the frock.

The consistently becoming navy wool sheer demonstrates its wearability with a pleated cape worn over a slim straight frock distinguished by pin tucks to arrow the bodice. Fan pleated motifs adorn the waist above an emerald green belt and a bunch of green and white cherries are posed at the neckline of the cape. Grey and rust checked wool creates a simple girlish frock shown at this Salon, with round collar and soft bow tie.

TRINIDAD CLIPPER—This is the special travel-weight suit tailored expressly for Bergdorf Goodman in London. Made of a check-plaid Linton tweed in light tropical shades—gray with blue, gray with cork, and an irresistible pink with cork. The cashmere jumper is one of an extra fine collection of Bergdorf Goodman's English sweaters.

Beige has been revived this season by Jay-Thorpe and here is a flattering evening frock of starched chiffon in that color . . . there is a softly draped cowl low at the front decolletage filled with flowers in harmonizing shades. The Peacock lines of the back of the skirt are a new note.

The Cossack spirit expressed in a charming coat of white broadtail with standing collar and full sleeves. The border is of luxurious white fox. From Madame Najla Mogabgab's Breakers Salon.

This gayly printed crepe evening dress has a tunic effect top that gather momentum in the back and forms a full peplum. Tiny shoulder straps and two large flowers produce a very soft neckline, from Bonwit Teller.

MOONLIGHT TO ORDER

Illustrated are views exemplifying the nature-like moonlight effect achieved by Rudolf Wendel in his treatment of indirect lighting of exteriors. Above - moonlight reflected in the swimming pool on the grounds of Mrs. George Luke Meskers Palm Beach residence. Left and below—scenes illustrating the sparkle and life as brought to the fore through the medium of indirect lighting of the patio on the Palm Beach estate of Mrs. Harrison Williams.

ONE of the miracles of the twentieth century may be found in the marvelously faithful reproductions of moonlight upon crystal clear waters, tropical palms and flowers, originated by that master technician Rudolf Wendel. Mr. Wendel's optical devices are concealed quite unnoticeably in a hundred different places, adding the dreamy grace of a southern moon to the mystery of a deep tropical night.

Black shadows of palm crowns and the tall trunks of trees are projected across white flood-lit expanses. A garden flooded with the mystic charm of soft moon-beams is enhanced by cleverly hidden reflectors, reproducing the colors of the flowers in a refreshingly natural manner.

In the lovely patios and grounds of most of the Palm Beach homes one finds also, perfect little fountains tinkling silver white moonlight. Startling effects are produced in underwater lighting, with the phosphorescent gleam of concealed reflectors gleaming through the crystal clear waters of garden pools to heighten the illusion of moon-beams playing upon the garden.

Everything is deepened, made more extravagantly luxuriant. The lofty palms in the artificially illuminated settings seem of brobdignagian proportions, the aisles of trees and flowers never ending, the chiaroscuro in black and white increasing all the mysterious depths of the tropical vegetation.

All the artistry of a masterpiece in lithograph or oil painting is evident in the realistic beauty encountered in the patios and gardens lighted through the genius of Wendel.

PALM BEACH ART CENTER

IN ANNOUNCING the list of prize-winners for the outstanding works of art which have been on display at their salon during the season, the Palm Beach Art Center climaxes a brilliant and successful exhibition of the offerings of the leading American Artists.

The one hundred and seventy-two exhibitors who comprised the group of artists whose canvases, etchings and sculptures were on display include academicians and moderns as well as technicians who adhere more closely to the established forms of self expression.

Every effort has been made in the current exhibition to present Art for Arts sake. In viewing the marvelous collection of works of American artists, one finds a modicum of ultra modernism and a plethora of dignity and refinement in technical treatment marking the efforts of the leading younger artists.

Paintings and etchings ranging from delicate still lifes to robust creations in oil and water colors show a diversified blending of technique and color.

The list of prizes which have been awarded are as follows: The Chauncey Woodworth Prize for the best portrait or figure painting was awarded to Henry Hubbell for his large canvas, "Casa Rosita." The picture represents a lovely lady reclining on a chaise-lounge in the shade of tropical trees with an extremely luminous background. The patio forming the background for this interesting picture is typical of the south Florida villas encountered in Palm Beach. The fresh polychromic color treatment of the figure in contrast with the vibrant sunlight of the patio, conveys vitality in both figure and concept. This painting was one of the outstanding canvases exhibited previously at the National Academy of which Mr. Hubbell is a member.

Three Honorable Mentions in the portrait class were assigned: One to "Arrangement in White," by Margaret Fitzhugh Brown, for the exquisite treatment of the entire canvas, comprising aristocratic rendition of the white gown and furs. Another to a painting by Sandor Vago of Cleveland entitled, "Jim." This is a portrait of cow-boy done with unusual strength and a keen analysis of the subject. The third honorable mention was given to "Portrait of a Young Artist" by O. F. McIntyre. It is a strong canvas painted with refreshing candor and few colors. The subject is presented in an unusually straightforward manner.

The Lucille Dingley Sculpture Prize was awarded to "Young Diana" by Janet Scudder. It is an exquisite bronze, modeled with finesse and cast in a beautiful patina.

The Honorable Mentions in sculpture are as follows: "Aenigma," a magnificent polychrome marble bust by Evelyn Longman Batchelder; "Crane's Arising," by Anna Hyatt Huntington, a very difficult and elaborate piece which elicited a great deal of admiration and interest in last spring's exhibition of the National Academy of Design. The other honorable mention was given to C. P. Jennewein for his "Baby Head."

The Margaret Cooper Prize for the best water color or pastel was won by Walter Hayns. His "Street in Rockport" captured the fancy of audience and judges by its direct treatment of the medium employed.

Honorable mentions to "Berbena" by Hilda Belcher, to "Freddie Bartholomew," by Leonebel Jacobs and to F. Usher De Voll for "Easter Fifth Avenue, at Plaza."

The Marie Von Hausen Prize for the best Flower Painting was given to Frederick Grant for his rich canvas "Geraniums." Honorable mention in this class to "Chrysanthemums," by Clara T. Knox and to "Dahlias," by Minna Walker Smith.

The Henry E. Bemis Memorial Prize was awarded to a beautiful canvas by Albert Backus entitled "Glorious Florida." Honorable mention to Windfield Clime for his striking marine

The Kane Etching Prize to John Taylor Arms for his "Venetian Mirror." Honorable mention to Gordon Grant's "A Cornish Port"* to Ernest Watson's "Thirsty" and to Daniel Garber's "Straw Barracks."

The Jane Peterson Popular Prize is to be awarded later as it is designated by the greatest number of ballots cast by visitors to the Exhibition.

The Art Center is located at the end of East Main Street and County Road. The visiting hours are from ten to five.

Following are the Jury of Awards: Albert Herter, N. A. Charles Vezin, A. N. A., Jane Peterson, Nunzio Vayana, Percival Dietsch, Chauncey Woodworth, Albert Aureli.

The Hanging Committee is comprised of Walter Hayn, Lucille Dingley, Henry Candler, Jacqueline Jones.

Council: Albert Aureli, Henry Candler, Lucille Dingley, Chauncey Woodworth, Walter Hayn.

Advisory Board: Evelyn Longman Batchelder, N. A.; F. Luis Mora, N. A.; Henry Rankin Poore, N. A.; Wilson Irvine, N. A.; Sergeant Kendall, N. A.; G. E. Brown, N. A.; Aldro Hibbard, N. A.; Howard Giles, N. A.; Jane Peterson, John Carlson, N. A.; Charles Curran, N. A.; Alexander Bower, N. A.; Hilda Belcher, A. N. A.; Charles Vezin, A. N. A.; Henry Hubbell, A. N. MIAMI

TIME ceases to be a reality in Coral Gables and dawn glides into noon with a delicious languor. Afternoon is play-time, and with conventions discarded, play may be anything from borrowing the butler's bicycle for a spin between the palms on Greenway Drive, or robbing the kumquat tree in your neighbor's front yard.

Life is as gay and exciting as the pink wrought iron flamingoes bordering the balconies of some of the Spanish homes here.

Jaime, Duke of Arcos, lineal descendant of Charles II of Spain and Prince Jafar Devlet-Muraz of Russia will be honorary judges at the selection of Miss Florida Sunday when more than 200 beautiful girls, who have been nominated, will parade at the Miami Biltmore pools.

Harry Richman, the Beau Brummel of Broadway; Ben Bernie, radio's Old Maestro; Damon Runyon, famous newspaper columnist and fiction writer; Lawrence Schwab, noted producer and Sheila Barrett, talented impersonator, will be on the board of judges of which George Hussey, president of the Miami Artists and Writers Club will be chairman.

A novel event was given at the Coral Gables Country Club on Granada Boulevard yesterday when new residents and seasonal visitors were complimented with an afternoon party by the feminine members of the club. Guests were permitted to select their own games and prizes were given for the winners of each.

Mrs. Edward MacCourt of Brookline, Mass., is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. J. Gavagan, also of Brookline, at the San Sebastian Hotel.

Miss Sarah Holmes Abbe was hostess at a bridge party in the lounge of the hotel yesterday.

Mrs. Frank Wilson and her daughter, Miss Franz Wilson of Fieldale, Va., have arrived to visit Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Dobbs, Jr., at their Coral Gables home on Blanca Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Castleman of Louisville, Ky., is being feted with a series of social events by Col. and Mrs. Walter B. Gullion.

Mrs. Harold Bailey was hostess to members of the Shenandoah Garden Club Wednesday at her Coral Gables home when an interesting talk on English gardens was given by the hostess, who visited in England on her recent trip abroad. The talk was illustrated with pictures.

Guests invited by the members included: Mrs. Harold Pettit of Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. Florence Jones of Philadelphia; Mrs. Edward A. Hook of Kansas City; Mrs. Charles F. Smoot of Petersburg, Ill.; Mrs. E. L. Hazen of Hamilton, Ill.; Mrs. G. F. Rydall of New York, and Mrs. C. C. Pittman of Gainsville.

R. O. Molson of Montreal, Can., is spending several weeks at the home of friends on Sarto Avenue.

Mrs. Richard Clement and her son, Richard Clement II of Larchmont, N. Y., are the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Frank C. Flanagan on Segovia Avenue.

Mrs. Kathryn F. Evans has as her house guests at her home on Genoa Street, Mrs. Harry Highman, Mrs. Henry S. Trimpi and Dr. Norman W. Trimpi of Maplewood, N. Y., and Mrs. Donald Hylan of Plainfield, N. J.

Miss Mary Nancy Richards and her father, M. H. Richards of Covington, Ky., are the guests of Mrs. Florence A. Burger at her home on Navarre Avenue.

Loring A. Cover of Baltimore, Md., was complimented at a birthday party by his daughter, Mrs. James Piper, Jr., of Coconut Grove last night. Mr. and Mrs. Colston Young and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Blakiston, all of Baltimore, were the guests.

Mrs. William Fielding and her sons, Billie and David Fielding, Iron Mountain, Mich., are spending the winter in Coral Gables.

One of the outstanding social events of the month will be a bridge party and dance which will be given in celebration of St. Patrick's day at the Miami Biltmore Country Club, March 17.

The Coral Gables Woman's Club and the American Legion Auxiliary will sponsor the affair, for which many reservations already have been made, including: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brendel of Cleveland, Ohio; Capt. Cornelius Roddy of New York, Mrs. Jane Lawrence of Paris, France; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McCune of Tulsa, Okla.; Mrs. M. B. Phillip of New York, Mrs. Blaine Smith and Mrs. Elmore F. Higgins of Pelham Manor, N. Y.; Mrs. J. W. Thomas, Mrs. Ralph Leonard and Mrs. Fred Cast, all of Akron, Ohio; Mrs. John P. Frazer of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vidmer, Mrs. Edward Wyloe and Mrs. Edward Wylde of New York, Mrs. Edwin Daly of Philadelphia, Pa.; Thomas Sabin of Washington, D. C.; and Harry Rust of Philadelphia.

Mrs. John W. Moon of Butler, Pa., was hostess at one of the largest bridge parties of the season in the Spanish lounge of the Miami Biltmore Hotel following a luncheon the past week.

Mrs. Galen C. Hartman of Pittsburgh, Pa., was honor guest at the party which carried out a blue and lavender color scheme. Larkspur and ragged robins in amethyst vases decorated the luncheon table and placecards were monogrammed in blue, and tied to old fashioned lavender nosegays which were favors.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frank H. Stephens of Pittsburgh, Mrs. William C. Phillips of Duquesne, Mrs. George Johnston of Towanda, Pa.; Mrs. Charles Gillingham Moore of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Charles Bears, Jr., of York, Pa.; Miss Caroline Griffin of Orlando, Mrs. David M. Hamilton of Wilkinsburg, Mrs. Edith S. Cronk of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Hadlai Hull and Mrs. C. H. Cort of New London, Conn.; Mrs. A. L. Brown and Mrs. L. O. Smith of Norwich, Conn.; Mrs. John McConnell of Kenilworth, Ill.; Mrs. Davil Scully of Chicago, Mrs. Gladys H. Simson of Buffalo, Mrs. D. J. Kerr of St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. Frank E. Trip of Elmira, N. Y.; Mrs. Lydia S. Browder of Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Louis M. Austin of Elmira, N. Y.; Mrs. Dean Hart of St. Johns, Mich.; Mrs. L. M. Coolittle of Ashland, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Toohey gave a party recently for Mr. and Mrs. Phil Maher of Kalamazoo, Mich., at the Cla-Riena Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Menzie of Lake George, N. Y., arrived Monday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Warde in their home on Capri Street for a month.

Mrs. Menzie, formerly Rose Melville, originated and had the leading part in the production, "Sis Hopkins."

Mr. and Mrs. Cephas I. Shirley of Newark, N. J., arrived yesterday to visit their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Allen, on Talavera Street.

Miss Annabell Adams of Chicago, Ill., who is visiting Mrs. Sybella Chandler on Avenue Sidonia, is an attractive addition to the winter colony here.

Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Tripp of Latonia, Ky., are spending their honeymoon here as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Hurley at their home on Navarre Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Devrees of Clifton, N. Y., are also among the newly married couples who are stopping at the Antilla Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carver Pusey of Honey Hollow, Wrightstown, Pa., arrived to spend a month here with their two children. Mr. Pusey is the creator of the comic strip character, "Benny."

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hershey of Evanston, Ill., are visiting friends on Ortega Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Pierce on Palermo Avenue are hosts to Mrs. Thomas McGee and her two daughters, Misses Elizabeth and Marguerite McGee of Spartanburg, S. C. Numerous social courtesies have been extended to the visitors.

UNDER THE STARS

THE PATIO is a delightfully attractive spot for luncheon, cocktails or dinner. The cuisine is superb; the service excellent, and Mr. Sam Salvin, managing director of the Patio, and his very able assistant, Capt. Eddie Zimmerman, always have something different and novel to offer the guests in the way of entertainment.

The Treasure Hunt held there recently afforded much excitement and amusement for the patrons and was a pronounced success. Then the Patio News Reel—shows every Sunday night between the dinner and supper hours—portraying varied social and sporting events in Palm Beach, is of keen interest to the colonists as is evidenced by the large throngs foregathered there every Sunday evening.

This smart and fashionable restaurant, which has been the scene of many brilliant functions this season, is a popular rendezvous of the Palm Beaches. An entirely new floor show was presented there last week and is drawing capacity crowds nightly.

Miss Renita Kramer, the sensation of the French Casino, both in New York and Miami, captured the audience with her extremely clever "Boy and Girl Dance." Mr. Howard Brooks, better known as the society trickster and entertainer of royalty, is an absolute wizard with his feats of magic and just holds on breathless and spellbound during his performance, while Miss Miriam Grahame is a very, very charming and talented songstress who is making her debut in Palm Beach and is rapidly rising to stardom.

The dance music provided by Val Ernie and His Continentals is both alluring and irresistible.

Among some of the guests noted at the Patio during the last week entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller Gould, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Albee, Mr. and Mrs. Jay O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth C. Warner, Mr. Gene Raymond, Mr. Charles Munn, Prince Mikhail A. Goundoroff and others.

In a resort noted for its diversified entertainment offerings the Colony Club continues to be outstanding for the unique innovations in cocktail, dinner and supper programs. From the sparkling, impromptu skits put on by the theatrical element among the guests to the ingeniously devised shows which form the regular entertainment fare one finds new, scintillating introductions into the night club field.

On a recent "Gala Carnival" night Mr. Sam Harris produced an impromptu show rivaling anything the eminent theatrical impresario has ever presented to the public when he brought his dinner guests to the Colony Club to stage the outstanding show of the season.

With George Jessel, Peppy de Albrow, Harry Rosenthal, Leo Deslys, Keno Clark, Miss Margery Logan, and the irrepressible Pepino on the cast, the party which started out to be a brief stop for cocktails developed into an all-star skit with a rollicking group stealing the show from the talent at the club. New York theater audiences would have paid fancy prices to witness the act which is the talk of the resort today.

Both the winner and loser of the "Society Ball Game" were in evidence at the Colony Club after the contest with Mr. Woolworth Donahue and several of his team-mates and friends just missing George Jessel and his pranksters by a few minutes.

A perusal of the list of entertainers to be found at the Colony during the season reads like a composite presentation of the best talent available in the smartest of the New York night clubs. Ramon and Rosita, Oliver Wakefield, Clarke and Deslys, Moore and Revel, Sheila Barrett, Arthur Brown, Pepino, Peppy de Albrew and a host of impromptu performers ranging from America's leading funster George Jessel, to some of society's beautiful songbirds.

One of these charming young socialites appeared at a recent Amateur night with a mask to capture the audience with her lovely voice and delightful personality, forming one of the many surprises which the regulars at the Colony Club are always certain of encountering.

Cocktail parties where the guests and hosts are garbed in the habiliments of Sing Sing or possibly in the feminine habiliments of the mauve era are held every Sunday afternoon with each holiday affair promising something new and startling to the intrepid seeker after amusement.

Ernie Holst and his musical lads have become synonymous with Colony Club entertainment. The lilting strains of the latest in dance music gains new sparkle when Ernie and the boys go to work on them. Rhythm and grace mark the blond orchestra leader's interpretations of toe tickling dance music.

The Colony Club Trio, have held the singing spotlight in the Palm Beach colony for many moons with no sign of their popularity diminishing. Feminine hearts continue to palpitate when Ernie Holst's popular warblers sing the dreamy numbers.

Many week-end house-parties culminated in a visit to the Colony Club on a recent Gala Carnival night, where the most representative gathering of the socialites on the island are to be found on Saturday night. Just as Friday is the recognized day for piscatorial cuisines among the peoples of the Christian world, Saturday is the authentic Colony Club night among the smart set in Palm Beach. The Colony Club has many brilliant nights, but none so outstanding as "Gala Carnival Night."

One of the most interesting dinner parties at the Colony Club recently was given by Mr. Ralph Beaver Strassburger. His guests were Hon. Wilford Egerton, Viscount du Pont-aux-ice de Heursey and Mr. Richard Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Wheller entertained for Capt. Noel Turner, Captain Frank Covell, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Wing and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Warner.

At one of the parties noted in the patio were Mr. Randolph Burke, Miss Frances Drexel Munn, Miss Mary Munn and Mr. David Brookes.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sanford entertained for Mr. Harry Richman.

Mr. Richard MacNeil had twelve of his friends as guests at the club. Mr. S. D. Topping was observed with a party of ten; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden, who are staying at the Breakers, entertained for ten. Mr. A. C. Ostergren for seven; Mr. W. Y. Holbrook was host to five; the Misses Dorothy and Muriel Richards were members of a sparkling party. Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Warburton were observed with several friends. Observed among the many parties were Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Shonnard, Jr., and Mrs. Joyce Shonnard; Mr. Dorland Doyle, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Miss Grace Amory, Mrs. Sam Cole, Mr. Melville Hall

Money and Skill Couldn't Have Built a Better Boat

SEA PHANTOM 48 is the smartest, most up-to-date, most luxuriously appointed craft of its size afloat. 88% streamlined, this remarkable 48-foot cruiser radiates individuality of design and appointments. And, it is the only standardized boat on the market fastened entirely with Monel Metal, which means added strength at a considerable saving in weight and longer hull life.

Accommodations are comparable to those of a much larger yacht. There are so many unusual and exclusive features, that space does not permit complete description here. These unique refinements include Venetian blinds, sliding type non-breakable glass windows, sliding Monel Metal screens, indirect lighting, stocking compartments, soiled clothes receptacles, shoe and hat racks, and blanket compartments. Special Johns-Manville Sea Phantom sound-proofing reduces engine noise to a minimum. Engines mounted on specially constructed Monel Metal wedges reduce vibration and prevent disalignment. Satin-finished corrosion-proof hardware.

Monel Metal plumbing, tanks, propellers and shafts. Even china, glassware, silver and linens are supplied marked with owner's flags or monogram.

Arrangement plans and power plants available to meet your own requirements. Interior and exterior color schemes optional. One of several arrangements is illustrated at the right and described below.

RECORDING CARD TABLE

The Table
with the Infallible Memory

THE Innovation for which bridge fans have been clamoring since the game began A smart sturdy piece of furniture that will lend a note of individuality to any room. Walnut finish with silver-plated and etched fittings. Moisture proof cover.

Not an electrically operated table but a silent recording masterpiece. Moderately priced because you buy direct from the manufacturer.

See this table at our new display room where a demonstration is gladly given at any time. A trial will convince you that its the one and only answer to a perfect game of bridge.

Trust Business Advances Through Five Years of Depression

Most people are turning to Trust Companies for the management of their estate and trust funds. At the close of 1934, personal trusts being administered by the Trust Departments of one thousand nine hundred twenty eight national banks showed an increase of 34% since the close of 1933. Indications all point to a continued substantial increase for the years of 1935 and 1936.

This increase in volume and number of personal trusts is evidence of the confidence which men and women of wealth repose in trust company management. Many are realizing that trust services provide them with more time for more gainful activities. We shall be glad to explain how we can be of service to you in that direction.

NASSAU

The British Riviera

YOU see it first when your ship approaches the island of New Providence, when the bright Bahaman sun picks out the roofs and spires of old Nassau, the white beaches and the grim forts on the hills beyond. You see it there, just inside the harbour entrance, a great hotel rising from the palms of a garden estate that touches the changing blues and greens of the tropic waters.

This is the British Colonial, center of the smart resort-life that has made Nassau a British Riviera

Overnight from Miami

Florida, or two hours by daily airliner. Direct ships from Halifax, Boston and New York. For literature, hotel reservations, etc., address British Colonial Booking Director, 521 Fifth Avenue (Suite 2421-25), New York, N. Y.

The pleasures of your tropical holiday here include the comforts and Continental cuisine of this famous hotel . . . swimming in pool or surf, golf on a seaside course, yachting (with anchorage and landing at the hotel), tennis, horse racing, polo, deep-sea fishing . . . the varied interests of Nassau, from its gayety of night life to the fun of shopping for London and Paris imports.

"BEAUTY IS NOT A GIFT . . .

IT'S A HABIT"

SAYS

germaine monteil

FAMOUS FRENCH COUTURIER

"No gown in the world—be it fashioned from cloth of gold and hemmed with sables—can make a woman beautiful when age has etched cruel lines into her face. The secret every couturiere knows is this: a truly great gown is designed to call attention—not to itself—but to its wearer. And a great gown is bitter irony when its wearer has lost the clear radiance, the firm contours of youth."

The following women of distinction, acclaim these new beauty products as the perfect answer to their beauty problems.

Countess Therese De Carman Chimay
 Princess de Braganza
 Duchesse de Sangro
 Princess Robert de Broglie
 Princesse Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst
 Isabella Principessa Colonna
 Her Royal and Imperial Highness Arch-duchesse Fanny

Germaine Monteil chooses the following shops in Palm Beach, Miami, and Miami Beach to present her exquisite cosmetiques.

FOR ENTERTAINMENT AND ENTERTAINING

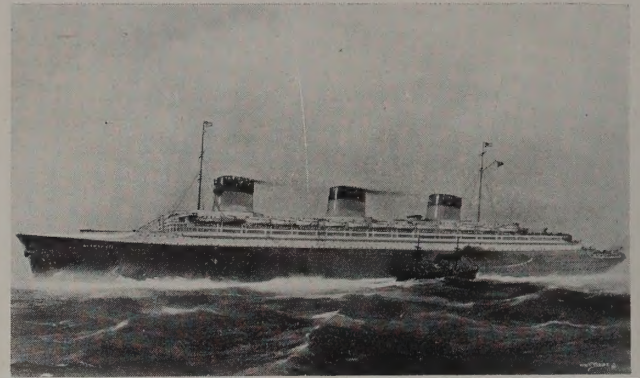

To almost every visitor, New York means entertainment . . . and to most, a certain amount of entertaining. One of the most attractive phases of The Waldorf-Astoria is its sparkling social life . . . its balls, dances, banquets . . . its gay restaurants where New York gathers to enjoy sophisticated entertainment and the most famous dance orchestras of the day. Single rooms: $5, $6, $7. Double rooms: $8, $9, $10.
